SENORITA CASSIO'S THRILLING FLIGHT FOR HER LIBERTY.

The Young Girl Prisoner Plans an Escape From the Cuban Jail and Is Successful.

She Fed Drugged Candy to Her Companions in the Cell and While They Soundly Slept, Sawed Away the Bars of Her Iron Cage and Crawling Over House-Tops, Made Her Way to Freedom.

HAVANA, October 8—Senorita Evangelina Cassio y Cisneros, heroine of the sensational adventure with the Spanish Governor of the Island of Pines, has escaped from the Casa de Recogides, where she had been confined for several months on a charge of conspiracy against the crown of Spain and of an attempt upon the life of Berriz, Governor of the Isle of Pines. Her escape was of the most sensational character.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

HAVANA, Oct. 8.—The escape of Senorita Evangeline Cassio, otherwise Cassio Y Cisneros (exclusively reported in a cablegram to the Associated Press last night), has caused quite a sensation in Havana.

The investigation made by the outhorities has developed a number of additional facts. It is now asserted that the young woman escaped between 11 o'clock and midnight of Wednesday over the roof of a neighboring house and through it to the street below, O'Ferrel Lane, where the police found a hand ladder. The roof of the adjoining house had three planks, each about three feet long and eighteen inches wide, joined by strong hinges so as to serve as a bridge, enabling a person to pass from the roof of the prison to the roof of the house.

The police also found on the roof a Smith & Wesson revolver of large calibre, having its six chambers loaded and a new knotted rope, which had evidently been used as a life line or guiding rope to enable the escaping prisoner to cross the plank bridge which had been extended by her accomplices from the house near Casa de Recojidas to the roof of a prison.

The revolver, the knotted rope, and the portable bridge, as well as other discoveries made by the police show that the escape of Senorita Cassio was long and carefully planned.

She must have been in constant communication with those who enabled her to escape from the Casa de Recojidas where she was imprisoned with eleven other women.

Some of the details of the young Cuban's escape are quite romantic. It appears that a real estate agent named Marieno Fernandez, who was in charge of the house No. 1, O'Ferrel Lane, declares that he recently rented that building to two well-dressed young men who seemed to be highly respectable. They hired the house for two months and paid the rent in advance. The building was poorly furnished, but the young men seemed to be perfectly satisfied with their surroundings and little or no notice of them was taken by the neighbors or anybody else.

In the rooms at No. 1 O'Ferrel lane, the police, in addition to the articles already described, found a bag of lime, a can of paint and a large brush, which might be used for the application of either lime or paint.

Inside the window through which Senorita Cassio escaped the police discovered a bed-sheet and as this apartment was her sleeping room, the authorities are inclined to believe that the sheet was used by the escaping prisoner to envelope herself with the object of deceiving her roommates, if she was unlucky enough to awaken them, into the belief that she was moving about in her night clothes.

The quarter of the prison which was occupied by Senorita Cassio is known as the "New Hall," for the reason that it was constructed only several months. It is set apart for the use of female prisoners and quite comfortable compared with other Spanish prisons.

The companions of the young Cuban woman whom she left behind say that the day before Senorita Cassio escaped she received a package, believed to have contained drugged candies. In any case, the Senorita, contrary to her usual custom, did not at once distribute the candies to her prison companions, but waited until Wednesday night, when she urged them to partake of the confections.

The prisoners did so, and they express the conviction that the sweets were drugged, for they soon afterwards fell into a deep sleep and did not awaken throughout the night, although the filing of the bars before Senorita's bedroom window must have caused enough noise to awaken the prisoners under ordinary circumstances.

There is a division of opinion as to whether the escape of the Senorita was effected by Americans or by Cuban insurgents. The police are hard at work investigating the escape and all the Spanish authorities along the coast have been communicated with in the belief that an attempt may be made to embark the Senorita upon some vessel leaving Cuba for the United States or elsewhere.

Ferdinandez, the jailor in charge of Casa de Recojidas, and four employes of the government who were on duty there, have been arrested and confined incommunicado pending the result of the inquiries being made into the escape.

JAPAN NOW TURNING TO ELECTRIC RAILWAYS

Bark Alette Lost in a Typhoon at the Entrance to Tokio.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8.—The following Japanese advices were received today per steamer China from Yokohama:

The Japanese government has officially sanctioned the construction of a new harbor at Osaka.

A submarine cable has just been laid from Hokkaido to the Kurile islands.

During the summer just closing over 47,000 cases of dysentery and about 9,300 deaths from the same cause have been reported throughout the country.

The Tokio Tramway Company which is about to change its present system to that of an electric railway, has increased its capital to three million yen.

The Foreign Department will next year establish legations in Belgium, Turkey, Spain and five consulates at Marseilles, Hamburg, Odessa, Calcutta and Kanko.

During a typhoon which caused much damage on September 9th, the Norwegian bark Alette, from Vancouver to Yokohama with a cargo of lumber, was caught at the entrance to Tokio harbor and dashed on the rocks at Tetcyama bay and went to pieces. Her captain, second mate, carpenter, steward and two sailors saved their lives by jumping upon the rocks, but the chief mate and nine of the crew were drowned.

SPRUNG A SURPRISE ON WELBURN.

A Young Lady Clerk Says She Has Only Had Half Pay.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8.—The prosecution in the case against O. M. Welburn, the deposed Collector of Internal Revenue, charged with embezzlement, closed its case today, after springing a surprise upon the defense in the person of Miss Nellie O'Brien, who had been employed as a clerk, but had only received one-half of the amount due her from Welburn.

Messenger Dillard admitted having cashed all the checks made payable to the witness and handed the money to Welburn, and this concluded the evidence for the government.

CHOKED HER TO DEATH.

The Dead Body of a Woman Found in the Brush.

By Associated Press to the Tribune.

POTTSTOWN, Pa., Oct 8.—Gustav Harkness, an aged hermit who lives in an old hut near the Schuylkill river, a short distance above this place, last night found the body of an unknown woman lying in the bushes. The woman had evidently been murdered.

Her clothing was torn and disarranged, and from appearances, she had been choked, as her tongue was protruding from her mouth. The bushes indicated a fierce struggle.

The woman was five feet three inches in height, weighed 125 pounds and was about 20 years of age.

ANOTHER BLOW-UP AT THE SANTA CRUZ MILLS

A Few Pounds of Powder Make a Noise and Cartridges Raise a Racket.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

SANTA CRUZ, Cal., Oct. 8.—At 1:45 this morning two distinct reports of explosions at the powder works were heard here. They were not so loud as those of last week, when several mills were destroyed, but, as powder making was only resumed on Wednesday night for the first time since the prior explosion, it was feared that the whole mills had been blown up. Upon investigation it was learned that about one hundred pounds of powder used in the manufacture of cartridges had exploded in the cooper shop. Fire, which followed, communicated with the cartridge factory, resulting in the explosion of many cartridges. As the other buildings are some distance away, the fire was confined to the cartridge factory and cooper shop.

As the dynamo was damaged, all the electric lights at the works were extinguished. J. Holliday was bruised on the head by a piece of flying wood. The loss is estimated at several hundred dollars.

BRITISH JOURNALS SPEAK.

A Charge That This Country Has Not Paid for Canadian Boats Siezed.

By Associated Press to the Tribune.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—The St. James Gazette, this afternoon referring to the formal announcement of Great Britain's decitnation to take part in the Bering Sea conference to which Russia and Japan might be parties, says:

"There will be a feeling of relief that Great Britain, in behalf of Canada, has finally declined to walk into the trap which was being arranged at Washington. America has never paid the indemnities for the illegal seizure of Canadian sealing vessels, and has exhausted every diplomatic artifice to evade the award, finally demanding a fresh conference. The Marquis of Salisbury consented, whereupon America proposed that Russia and Japan should have seats at the conference with the obvious intention of outvoting England and upsetting, by a side wind, the Paris award."

The Globe, commenting on the same subject this afternoon, says:

"As a mere matter of business, it is time that a firm check be put on the policy of the United States in dealing with this country. There is no cause to adopt the theory that the Marquis of Salisbury, almost regretfully refuses to participate. In the interests of Canada, it is well to let the United States understand that no settlement of the question will satisfy Great Britain which sacrifices one jot or tittle of the just and equitable rights of the loyal dominion of Canada."

CONFESSION OF A BRUTE.

He Admits Attacking a Woman and Tells on His Companions.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CINCINNATI, O., Oct. 8.—A special to the Times Star from Mayville, Kentucky, says that the ten prisoners received there from Newport last night for the brutal assault upon Mrs. Gleason had a night of excitement. "Dad" Meiner early in the night, made a confession to Sheriff Plummer, and the other prisoners heard of it and tried to organize to punish him.

They uttered angry threats and kept Meiner in a state of fear all night. Meiner's statement has not been made public, except that he says there are innocent men in this party, and he has given to the Sheriff the names of others who are guilty.

He says he does not propose to suffer alone.

PARDEE'S POSITION

Declares His Desire to Serve His Party if He Is Wanted.

REFERS TO ALAMEDA'S CLAIM.

The State Will Allow it If it Be Presented With Unanimity.

DAVIS TALKS OF THE SITUATION

Says the Water Front Is Closely Allied to the Fight for Governor.

The State political fight may now be considered as fairly launched. Some weeks ago W. R. Davis announced that if the Republicans of this county unite on him as their choice to run for Governor, he would accept. He said, however, that the expression must be unanimous.

A little later the friends of Dr. George C. Pardee canvassed the situation and have since been working actively in his behalf. In today's Call appears the first direct statement from Dr. Pardee. It is as follows:

"Although I have not yet said a word for publication, everybody must know that I am a candidate for the nomination of Governor. It is very apparent that I would not have stood by silently while so much has been published about myself and my political standing if I were anxious to contradict it. My friends canvassed the situation voluntarily, and when they came to me I told them that if the Republicans of Alameda county wanted me to be their representative for the nomination for the head of the ticket that will surely sweep California next fall I would be ready and proud to accept the honor, and to use every effort at my command to show that such confidence was not misplaced.

"I recognize that the man who goes into the Republican convention from this county must have a united delegation, and I am also convinced that the man who is backed by the solid Alameda delegation will be acceptable to the Republican State convention. From all parts of the State I am assured that Alameda county can depend upon being permitted to name the next Governor, provided we are united. It is, therefore, the duty of the party to center upon the strongest man and to work with him with all its might.

"I am not attending to any other man's politics and am not allowing any one to do my own. I am over 21 and believe in acting independently. There is not a word of truth, so far as I am concerned, in the report that I have agreed to let a committee determine who is the stronger man and to abide by the result. I am running Pardee. If the Republicans of Alameda want me to run for the nomination for Governor, I am with them, heart and soul. If they decide on some other man, I am his supporter and friend."—George C. Pardee in an interview.

In the same paper, W. R. Davis this morning says:

"Our people feel that while they have furnished majorities for Governors and have saved the State on more than one occasion, they have never had a Republican Governor from this county, and that it is only fair that this county should be considered favorably in that respect.

"It is of special importance at this juncture. The effect of the recent water-front decision will be such that the State will undoubtedly have to do at an early day with the Oakland water front. When it acts it will in all probability act through a Board of Harbor Commissioners. It is generously provided that Commissioners shall be designated by the Governor. It is obvious that our people prefer to have the future plans of their harbor development devised and started by men appointed by a Governor familiar with the Oakland water front and the possibilities of its development. If the original plans are wrong, it will be a stumbling block in our way for twenty years to come.

"The future of the Oakland water front is of much greater commercial importance than as yet is commonly understood. Its development if carried out with reasonable speed will convert Oakland from what it has been into an important and finally great commercial city. Personal interest in the Governorship is trivial when compared with these great interests or when compared even with the other matter of considerable importance, the standing of this county among the fifty-seven counties of this State in the administration of the affairs of the State."—W. R. Davis in an interview.

It is conceded on both sides that the contest which is of the friendliest nature possible should be concluded before the primaries. It is desired to let the State know as soon as possible that Alameda has but one candidate for whom the county is working as a unit.

The question of which man should withdraw is now the paramount problem before the party.

ORIENT TALES

Councellor Akiyama Seeks to End His Life in the Port of Yokohama.

TWO VERY DANGEROUS WOUNDS

Inspired by the Lack of Success as Japan's Representative at Hawaii.

DR. JERRARD SMITH MURDERED

Miss Brewer, His Intended Bride Now a Resident in San Francisco.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8.—The steamship China arrived here this morning from Hong Kong, via Honolulu, with the following Hawaiian advices under date of the 2d instant:

HONOLULU, Oct. 3.—The steamer China brought word that Councillor Akiyama of the Japanese Foreign Office attempted suicide at Yokohama on September 20th. At last accounts he was in a critical state. There were two severe wounds, one in the throat and the other in the abdomen. Akiyama arrived in this city on the Japanese cruiser Naniwa last May to assist Minister Shimamura in handling the Japanese immigration matter. He proved to be a bright young man of considerable experience in diplomatic work and he made many friends during the three months he spent in the islands. He was ordered home in July, and the impression got abroad at the time that he failed to accomplish what was expected of him by his government, and he had gone home in disgrace. At any rate, prior to his departure, the matter had been taken entirely out of his hands.

The Supreme Court has affirmed the decision of the lower court in the case of the steamship China, and at a late hour yesterday G. W. MacFarlane secured a register for the big vessel. It was feared that the government might ask for a re-hearing of the case before the Supreme Court, but no further objection was offered and as soon as possible after Judge Perry had issued the writ against the Collector of Customs, it was presented at the custom house and the formal papers were drawn which gives the China the right to fly the Hawaiian flag.

Now that the China case has been disposed of the Pacific Mail Company will send the Baracouta, now plying between Central American ports, and will make application for an Hawaiian register exactly the same as the China had, having been issued at London on the same date and exactly under the same circumstances. There is no doubt that the Baracouta will get her register. MacFarlane, who is her flag-owner, says she will come here next month.

Dr. Jerrad K. Smith, a brother of Attorney-General Smith, was murdered at Koloa, on the island of Kauai, on the night of September 24th. A native named Kapea committed the deed. His brother, an accomplice, turned State's evidence and the arrest of the murderer followed.

The crime was a most cold-blooded one. Dr. Smith was at his desk engaged in writing. A knock called him to the door, and as he stepped on the veranda, the native shot him and then drove off.

His victim lived for a few moments. The murder was committed because Smith had ordered Kapea's mistress to Honolulu to report as a leper suspect. This action incensed the native and he took the physician's life.

Dr. Smith was to have been married shortly to Miss Mary Brewer, now in San Francisco.

Senator John T. Morgan of Alabama addressed a large number of natives on September 30th. He spoke of the benefits annexation would bring to the Hawaiians.

The French cruiser Duguay Trouin sailed for San Francisco today.

Luetgert's Witnesses Shown Up as Romancers by the State.

MARY SIEMMERING'S STORY.

The Osteologist for the Defense Proven a Novice in the Business.

MYTH OF THE KENOSHA WOMAN

The Evidence Closed and Talks Will Begin on Next Monday.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—The closing day in the rebuttal evidence of the prosecution in the famous Luetgert trial opened this morning with a continuation of the crisp impeaching evidence introduced yesterday.

States' Attorney Deneen furnished a capital sheaf in the shape of impeaching evidence of Prof. George Dorsey of the field Columbian Museum, chief osteological expert for the State in this trial, who had some hot shot for Dr. Allport and the other scientific gentlemen, whose testimony, if accepted in full, practically branded him as a stupid novice.

Policemen were called to impeach certain witnesses for the defense who had identified a picture of Mrs. Luetgert as that of a woman seen in Kenosha, Wis., May 3rd, 4th, and 5th.

Detective Edward Wallbaum testified that Matt Scholey had told him some weeks ago that the picture did not look like the woman Scholey saw at Kenosha. According to the witness, Scholey said he had not noticed the appearance of the strange woman he saw in Kenosha May 4th sufficiently to be able to identify her, much less a photograph.

Detectives Decelle and Dean gave impeaching evidence with reference to other Kenosha witnesses who had said the woman they saw was, to the best of their knowledge and belief, Mrs. Luetgert.

Prof. Mark Delafontaine was called upon to impeach the evidence of Prof. Long, of Northwestern University, with reference to bones. He expressed views on the subject directly at variance with the ideas of Prof. Long.

Prof. Dorsey followed Prof. Delafontaine on the witness stand and had just got his impeaching battery in good working order when it was discovered that Dr. Allport was not in court. The defense desired that the chief osteologist of Luetgert's side of the case be in court to hear himself "roasted" and Prof. Dorsey was withdrawn temporarily.

Frank Odorafsky, alias "Smokehouse Frank," furnished the comedy of the session. Odorafsky is a Pole, and has a poor opinion of German interpreters. To-day he employed some rich Polish profanity while informing the court that he had not said what had been credited to him by German interpreters who undertook to translate his language.

A Polish interpreter was procured, and Odorafsky related circumstances following the disappearance of Mrs. Luetgert which tended to further impeach Mary Siemmering.

The utter annihilation of the testimony of Mary Siemmering yesterday together with the impeachment of William Charles, Luetgert's business partner and confidential friend, has had a chilling effect upon the defense. Luetgert was morose and sullen to-day. He admitted to a jail guard that the case looked bad for him at present.

The State rested its case this afternoon. Court was adjourned until Monday when the defense will probably put on a few rebuttal witnesses. Then the arguments will begin. These will last six days.

The adjournment till Monday was taken to-day to permit Judge Tuthill to go to Nashville, Tenn. To-morrow is Chicago and Illinois day at the Tennessee Centennial Exposition. Judge Tuthill will be the orator.

The Situation as Received by the Government Officials at Washington

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 8.—At 1 o'clock to-day the Board of Health reported that there had been twenty new cases of fever and four deaths up to that hour.

The number of recoveries is averaging twenty per day. The death rate last night had sunk below ten per cent owing to the increase in new cases and the decrease in deaths.

The first case of the season has appeared at the police station and extra precautions have been taken to prevent a spread of the infection in that institution in which tramps and other similar characters are confined.

Four persons have died in the parish prison, but the doctors say that they were the victims of dropsical affection, owing to bad drainage and ventilation.

A summary of the fatalities here shows that sixty per cent of the deaths are traceable to neglect and to complications of disease.

A GALLANT CONDUCTOR THRASHES A MASHER.

George Jones Punishes a Man in the Approved Fashion

George Jones, a conductor on the Alameda electric road, and incidentally a nephew of State Senator Eli Denison, is the hero of the street railway employes today.

Jones, who is a rather small man, championed a strange young lady the other evening, by thrashing a "buly" who had been attempting to flirt with her. The only draw back to a romantic sequel is that Jones has a devoted wife and a couple of children living in Alameda.

It all happened aboard Jones' car. He was on the trip from East Oakland the car having but one passenger, —the young lady mentioned.

At Thirteenth avenue a man boarded the car and to take a seat inside just opposite the young lady, who was remarkably pretty. The male passenger had no sooner seated himself than he began trying to attract the young lady's attention by the methods usually employed by mashes. Jones observed the man's offensive conduct and finally decided to interfere. He accordingly stepped inside and said in a low voice to the fellow:

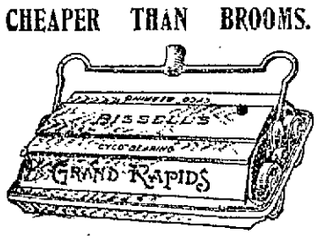

"If you do not behave yourself you will have to leave the car."

"There are not enough conductors on this line to put me off," answered the man.

Jones was formerly one of the best boxers of the Sacramento Athletic Club, and, although the man would have made two of the conductor, Jones determined to prove that there was one conductor on the line who knew a thing or two.

He let drive with his left and landed his blow in the pit of the fellow's stomach. A right-hander caught Mr. Masher under the ear and a left hook jabbed him in the jaw. In less time than it takes to record it, the fellow was lying in a heap in a corner of the car and Jones, cap in hand, was accepting the profuse thanks of the young lady. At the next corner the car was stopped and the offender was gently dropped to the ground. He arose and silently limped away into the darkness and the car rolled on.

POLANGER WILL GO TO THE INSANE ASYLUM.

His Insanity Shown Up Before the Commission by the Mayor.

Paul Sang de Polanger, the man who has been writing threatening letters to Mayor Thomas, was examined as to his sanity this morning by Drs. Knox and Olmsted.

Mayor Thomas and his secretary, Harry Thomas, were examined. The Mayor presented the rambling and threatening postal cards which he had received from the accused. He also detailed the conversation he had had with Polanger, and stated that he considered the conduct and language of the man as threatening.

Polanger was given a chance to defend himself. He said that he should not be considered insane because he sought to get money satisfaction for damage that had been done him by arrest.

He admitted, however, that he had been an inmate of the insane asylum at Salt Lake, but that he had been detained there as one of the help.

The commission recommended the subject to examination by the court.

The court asked him how he had received a scar on the top of his head and Murphy answered that he had gotten it from four clubs wielded by as many policemen. He declared that that was a way officers had of protecting themselves. They had to use clubs as a means of safety even when their victims were locked up in jail.

THE ORPHEUM IS DROPPED OUT.

Vaudeville Managers Will no Longer Send Artists to This Coast.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHICAGO, Oct. 8.—An important change in the affairs of the big vaudeville combine directed by Messrs. Kohl, Hopkins, and Castle, of this city, and controlling the vaudeville interests of nearly the entire territory west of New York, was made here to-day when the Orpheum circuit of the Pacific Coast was dropped.

According to the statement of local managers who have the affairs of the big circuit in hand, Director Gustav Walter of the Orpheum circuit insisted on performers going to the Coast for the same salaries they obtained through the East and this part of the country and in justice to the performers playing the eight theaters directly booked by the combine and nearly a score of other auxiliary houses in the Central West, it was decided to drop the extreme Western end of the circuit in all negotiations with performers as the salaries on the Coast have heretofore been double the amount received elsewhere, due to the heavy expense and loss of time making the big jump. This move is expected to result beneficially to the vaudeville performers.

HIS CHILD WIFE WEEPS IN COURT.

Mary Cardoza Appears Before Judge Hall This Afternoon.

The case of Mary Nunes Cardoza, the child wife of Bert Courant, whom Colonel Dimpfel of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children wishes to send to Whittier, attracted an interested lobby in Judge Hall's court this afternoon. The bride was prettily gowned and her long braids of hair, which previously hung on her shoulder, were twined around her head. She sat with her mother, who wept frequently.

Attorney Hugh Aldrich, who is defending the girl, based his case on the fact that Colonel Dimpfel's complaint did not state any specific acts of incorrigibility, nor could a married woman be legally sent to Whittier.

Col. Dimpfel testified that he did not know whether or not he had letters of guardianship over Mrs. Courant. He also said that she used abusive language toward him. He admitted also that he had read the young woman's love letters.

J., by the ship James Nesmith, from Port Natal.

The May Flint, which is the largest sailing ship afloat, and was formerly the steamer Persian Monarch, sailed from Philadelphia August 21st for Hiogo, Japan, with a cargo of oil. When spoken September 11th by the steamer Craftsman the May Flint's captain declined assistance, saying that as the ship's hull and running gear were injured, he would make the nearest port. Th capain of the Nesmith says that the May Flint was bowling along in good shape under a jury rig. He did not hail her.

MOURNED AS DEAD IN THE POTTER'S FIELD.

And Yet the Missing Spouse Returns to Mrs. Baird of Lyons.

A Buried Pauper Was Marked Just Like Her Husband.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

LYONS, Iowa, October 8.—Several years ago, at Port Byron, Ill., James Baird was united in marriage to Miss Dorrance. Later they removed to Chicago and some time ago removed to this city. On August 14th, without warning, and leaving no trace, Baird disappeared.

Some time afterward there appeared in the Chicago papers the account of the finding of the dead body of a man in a heap of rubbish in the rear of 34 Myrtle street, Dunning, Chicago. The description, which tallied with that of the missing man, met the eye of the wife, who went to Chicago, arriving there September 3d, to find that the body had been buried in the potter's field. The body was located, disinterred, and it was found that, while decomposition rendered the features unrecognizable, the size of the body and the general appearance of the hair, beard, and moustache resembled that of the missing man. As a last test, the wife said that her husband, who was a soldier of the late war, bore upon one shoulder a long, deep scar from a wound received in service. The clothing was removed and there upon the shoulder was a scar of the kind stated. Owing to the condition of the remains, it was impossible to remove them and they were re-interred in the potter's field, while the wife returned sorrowing to her home here. Now her grief is turned to rejoicing, for the husband, mourned as dead, returned home last night, alive and well. He offers no explanation of his strange absence and silence beyond the statement that he had been in Montana working at bridge building.

GRAFTED SKIN ON TORN FINGERS.

William Twaddell Very Cleverly Repaired at the Hospital.

The Patient Was Injured While at Work in the Cotton Mills.

A very unusual operation in this city was performed successfully in the Receiving Hospital this morning by Dr. Stratton assisted by a couple of other surgeons. It was the grafting of skin on the right hand of William Twaddell, an employe of the Cotton Mills in East Oakland who was seriously injured by a cotton picker while at work in the mills.

The thumb and the upper part of the hand in question had been badly injured and as some time would elapse before an outer covering of skin would appear upon it, if indeed, it would ever return, Dr. Stratton decided to expedite matters by covering the wound with skin taken from the victim's arm.

Accordingly, today, Twaddell bared his right arm to the elbow and the doctor by a skilful use of the lance soon outlined a square on the under part of the member about two inches square. As the blade penetrated the cuticle, the subject winced at the keenness of the pain, but he gave no further proof of suffering. The lancet was then drawn at regular intervals three times along the flesh and from one side to the other of the square outlined, dividing the space into three slips each about three-quarters of an inch in width. Then followed the work of raising these slips of flesh from the arm which was delicately and successfully accomplished by the surgeons, making use of very delicate pliers and forceps. The removal of the cuticle caused considerable pain but the patient evidently had made up his mind to bear the punishment and he did so in a very praiseworthy manner.

As soon as each slip of flesh was removed from the arm, it was placed upon the part of the hand that had been laid bare of skin by the accident. This also was a delicate piece of work, because the skin, when taken off the arm shrivelled up like a string and it was only by the exercise of the greatest patience that the doctors were enabled to spread it out and lay it flat on the wound. The operation consumed considerable time, but it is expected that it will enable the patient to recover the full use of the injured member.

Crane Will Be Greeted With Crowded Houses at the Macdonough.

There is a barometer in every theater that is watched as closely as the one that is on the ship at sea. Like the one used by the mariner it predicts stormy as well as pleasant weather, and through its means a manager can judge of the success his company is going to have. Just now the barometer in the Macdonough Theater is working over-time in the interests of William H. Crane, who comes to this city on Monday for an engagement of two nights. It may be remarked that this particular barometer is the cash drawer in the box office, and since the sale of seats began yesterday it has known hardly a restful moment. As has been announced, "A Virginia Courtship" will be given on Monday night and "A Fool of Fortune" will be the bill on Tuesday. Which of the two plays the public desires to see the most it is hard to say, most of the people getting around the difficulty of making a selection by buying seats for both.

The matter was reported to the police, but Quong Lee was unable to give any clue to the incendiarist.

FOUGHT WITH TWO LONE WOMEN.

Now Eugene Reeves Is Wanted by the Police Officers.

The Trouble Arose Over a Piano Which the Man Claimed.

The police are looking for Eugene Reeves, a young man well known about the city and a son of Mrs. S. A. Reeves, the Southern Pacific agent. Reeves is wanted for battering a couple of lone women.

The warrant for Reeves' arrest was sworn to by Miss Martha Morgan. According to Miss Morgan, her mother, Mrs. Mary Nerney, is a dressmaker and did some work for Mrs. Reeves. She claims that she has never been compensated for the work.

It seems that the Reeves lived in the home at 830 Fallon street before the Nerneys moved in and when they left the place they left a piano there. Since then, Mrs. Reeves has been trying to gain possession of the piano, but Mrs. Nerney has steadily refused to allow the piano to go out of the house until the dressmaking bill was paid.

Yesterday afternoon, Eugene Reeves went to the Nerney home and again demanded the piano. The refusal was repeated, whereupon Reeves, it is claimed, knocked Mrs. Nerney down. Miss Morgan ran to the rescue of her mother and Reeves turned upon her.

Miss Morgan presented a badly bruised face when she appeared before Clerk Hennessey of the Police Court to swear to the complaint.

Reeves hastened away after the trouble, and the police have been unable to locate him.

TWO INQUESTS.

The Coroner's Jury Decides That Little John Hand Was Careless.

Coroner Baldwin held two inquests yesterday. The first was in the case of Mathias Silva, at San Leandro, and the second in the case of little John Hand, who was crushed beneath the wheels of a freight car last Saturday.

In the Hand case, the jury brought in a verdict of death due to the child's own carelessness. The jury was composed of: E. J. Fennon, C. W. Brock, E. H. Brown, F. H. Carpenter, D. A. Jones, G. Selbt, P. J. Stockinger, E. S. Suzland, H. C. Richardson.

In the case of Mathias Silva, whose body was exhumed that Coroner Baldwin might hold an inquest, the jury brought in a verdict of accidental death. Silva fell from a rock wagon on the County road a week ago and died from his injuries last Monday night. Wednesday morning the remains were interred without informing Dr. Baldwin of the death.

Silva died at the County Infirmary and the death certificate was signed by Dr. Clark.

SPLENDID TRACK FOR ELMHURST.

The Haywards Road Purchases the Famous Velodrome Path.

Will Be Opened in Grand Style by the Acme Club Cyclers.

The Oakland, San Leandro and Haywards Electric Road has purchased the San Francisco Velodrome track and will remove it from San Francisco to Oakland immediately.

The track will be placed at Elmhurst, near the power house, and a large grand stand will be erected.

Some fast time has been made on the track, which originally cost $4,000. It is a six-lap track and is constructed of boards.

The purchase and removal to this side of the bay of the track means a big boom in cycling for Oakland.

A. P. Swain, a well known member of the Acme Club, and one of the most prominent men on cycling matters in the State, said last night that the opening of the new track at Elmhurst which virtually meant Oakland, would advance wheeling all along the line and would arouse a new interest among local cyclists in the race meets. "The Acme Club," said he, "will open the new track with a grand meet. We have already secured this privilege and hope always to do what we can to advance local cycling sport."

FRIDAY.....OCTOBER 8, 1897

Since the decision of the Supreme Court was handed down in the Supervisors case the Mayor of San Francisco has not been Phelan well.

Father Yorke is going to lecture on "Ghosts." This is not a very substantial subject but he will doubtless materialize one before he gets through.

Now that ex-Collector Welburn is down, everyone seems inclined to kick him. Some of those stories about his shaving warants are simply barbar—ous.

The Spiritualists are holding a big convention back East and debates about spirits are in order. It is a "shady" subject, but so far they have not been interfered with.

We will have the Old World borrowing from us pretty soon if the present stream of gold in our direction continues. Another half million is en route from the Bank of England to New York.

Poole, the London tailor, has declined a proposition to establish a branch house in New York and make up garments here. That shows he has got lots of horse sense. He realizes that his clothes wouldn't sell here unless they were imported.

It is not much use attempting further to pacify Ireland by sending one of the royal family there as lord lieutenant, in view of the sensational development of evidence showing that Queen Victoria is personally bitterly opposed to Home Rule.

When the old Board of Supervisors across the bay was dispossessed, somebody wrote a piece of poetry about "Ring out the old Board, ring in the new." In view of the decision by the Supreme Court, the members of the new Board certainly do look a little like "ringers."

There is no questioning the fact that there are plenty of available park sites in Oakland. The point is, which one is the best. As regards these outside offers it looks like a waste of time to consider them at all, because the Council certainly has no authority to obtain territory outside of the city limits except through the regular medium of an election.

The farmers don't seem able to stand all this prosperity. A Kansas granger lost in his fields the other day a $300 diamond ring he had purchased with some of his wheat crop money, and now comes the story of a Nebraska granger who was walking around town with $9,000 in his pocket and who was held up by three footpads and had it all taken away from him.

Another murderer is appealing for sympathy to save him from the scaffold. If sentiment is to cut a figure as well as legal technicalities the sooner we abolish capital punishment the better, for we will then be able to give these man-killers some hard labor as a punishment, instead of feeding them like guests while awaiting the course of interminable appeals.

Railroad statistics form a pretty good compass of the prosperity of a community and the announcement by the Southern Pacific of the enormous export trade from California during the past few months is convincing proof that the State is on its feet again. The traffic is so immense that despite its vast resources the railroad is finding it hard work to keep up with the demand for freight cars.

One of the improvement clubs across the bay that took pains to pass resolutions denouncing the members of the old Board of Supervisors when they were removed by Judge Wallace has hastened to have the expressions expunged from its records. A decision by the Supreme Court knocking out the appeals of the old Board would give the Club another opportunity to show its dexterity in playing the winner.

The latest reports about Langtry show that he is suffering from concussion of the brain. In view of the fact that he had been a passenger on the Crewe train and was found wandering around near the track this looks as if he fell out of the car or jumped out and hurt his head. What a nice little sensation the English newspapermen could work up if they could only figure on one of Prince Esterhazy's henchmen being on the train. Then a bold, daring plot, culminating in Langtry's being hurled from the car would give all the spice and romance necessary for a three-act drama.

Major Handy, our Commissioner to the Paris Exposition, is proving himself to be all that his name calls for. He found on his arrival at the French capital that the space allotted to the United States for the show was by no means commensurate and he has pegged away on the proposition until he has now secured for us as good quarters as those of any other country in the world. This is an excellent piece of work because the Paris Exposition is going to attract millions of visitors from all over the globe and those who now only know by hearsay what American enterprise can do, will have an opportunity to ocularly judge for themselves.

SUNDAY AMUSEMENTS.

Rev. Dr. Bovard has started up again the crusade against Sunday amusements in general and baseball in particular. He is very bitter against the present trend of popular fancy and says he fears we are returning to the times when "Sunday was made a day of grovelling and demoralizing pleasures."

With all due respect to Dr. Bovard and his opinions, we wish to say that he is very much in the wrong. The world has grown too liberal in its ideas to attempt to enforce on it now the methods of the Puritans and as this is a palpable fact, the next best thing to do for those ministers who are still of that way of thinking is to encourage amusements that are as harmless as possible. Surely baseball presents nothing that can lower the grade of our morality. It is a clean healthful pastime and is conducted under the most conservative conditions. No one ever saw a bar-room attached to a baseball ground that did any business—instead of lounging around in places of that description, the patrons of the games are invariably attending strictly to what they came for, that is, watching the progress of the contest.

It must be conceded by everyone that it is impossible to keep the rising generation tied down to the proposition that Sunday is a day to be devoted to going to church. There are plenty and cined enough to shrdlu shrdluu sses always will be plenty, religiously-inthree times each Sunday but at the same time it is also an established fact that the majority of the people who go at all limit their worshipping to just one appearance. It is easy to account for this. Nearly everybody here in America works more or less for a living on the week days. So when Sunday comes around they naturally look for some pleasant method of rest and recreation. To many, especially of the younger men, there is a great temptation in the inviting saloon with its air of good-fellowship, the rattle of the dice-box, and the potency of its stimulants, so the more inducements that can be offered to keep them away from such places, the better will be the morals of the community.

Sunday baseball is a good antidote for all this, and admitting for the sake of argument that it is not exactly the right thing, certainly it will be conceded that it does more good than harm. The players engage in the sport simply for the recreation it affords them and the patrons find their amusement in watching the efforts of the contestants. Where does the harm come in? The afternoon passes away pleasantly, the presence of the gentle sex is an effective check to even the slightest possibilities of profanity, and by the time the game is over the dinner hour is nearly reached and the people scatter to their respective homes. When it is admitted as it must be that ninety-nine per cent of the people who attend these games would not be at church anyhow, it must certainly be granted that they could not be passing their time in a less harmful way.

The ministers—worthy men all of them—must realize the conditions of the times more than they do. A slogan like that uttered by Dr. Bovard will not attract converts but will rather repel them. Few people can be brought to the altar under the methods and restrictions of the "Praise-God Barebones" era. Harmless Sunday sports are in no way repugnant to the spirit of true Christianity. It is an age of liberality, and Christianity can hold its own by the beauties and truths of its doctrines without trying to force people to unwillingly surrender their pleasures for practically no purpose.

The new Spanish ministry has got a double-decked revolt on its hands in Cuba. Weyler refuses either to resign or be recalled, so in addition to suppressing the insurgents it may be necessary to suppress him. A pretty complication is liable to ensue, as judging by the recent demonstrations in his favor at Havana the royalists in the island are inclined to stand by the Captain-General to the last, even in defiance of the Sagasta cabinet.

The Good Roads Association meets to-night and the representatives of the organization can go ahead with their plans, thoroughly confident that they are backed up by public sentiment. There is not a dissenting voice to the proposition to improve our highways and the only thing now to be done is to devise a feasible method as to properly apportioning the expense. Good roads means a greater and more substantial Oakland.

The woman suffragists never know defeat. They are organizing again for the coming campaign and with the experiences of the past to back them up they think they may be able to capture the next Legislature. They can get promises all right, but when it comes to actually landing the votes, they find themselves in the position of trying to beat a royal flush.

Unless some of these stage and train robbers are caught or killed pretty soon their ranks will get lots of recruits, for the temptation is a strong one for criminals, especially when they see how helpless the detectives prove to be. Three trains held up in five days is the record of the week so far and in every instance all the bandits got safely away.

WITH THE WITS.

"Perhaps you would like to do the shopping for the family yourself!" she exclaimed.

"Perhaps you would like to undertake the responsibility of providing the funds," he retorted.

Then both shuddered and realized that there was no use of trying to settle the question. It was the old, old dispute between capital and labor.—Washington Star.

"I guess I ain't so coarse," said the patient animal.

"Oh, I don't know," retorted Balaam. "You could not make a man of yourself if you talked for a decade, and I can make an ass of myself in five minutes."—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

"My dear, why are you saving those old fly papers?"

"Why, you said you always have to buy flies when you go fishing."—Detroit Free Press.

"Why were you discharged from your last place?" asked the merchant of the applicant for a situation.

"I was discharged for good behavior, sir."

"Wasn't that a singular reason for discharge?"

"Well, you see, good behavior took nine months off my sentence."—Life.

Weary—Yes'm; I discuvvered a wery rich gold mine in Alasky.

Weary—No'm. You see, Jaber's so high up dere dat I couldn't afford ter hire a man ter drive de stakes in for me.—Judge.

"Last night," said Mr. Booce, "I think I made a remark to the effect that I had one of the greatest heads in the ward."

"Something of the sort," said his wife.

"Well, this morning I feel fully prepared to say that I was right."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

The second floor front was furious.

"A woman who will serve hash with hair in it," he insisted, "ought to be hanged."

"Isn't that rather a severe penalty for mere tress-passing?" faltered the hall bedroom, who could be as mean as if he were the parlor downstairs.—Detroit Journal.

"Why do prosperous men always say that the ladder of success is made up of broken rounds?"

"Well, they do it so that other fellows won't try to crawl up after them."—Detroit Free Press.

The Sunday school class was singing "I Want to Be an Angel." "Why don't you sing louder, Bobby?" asked the teacher.

"I'm singing as loud as I feel," explained Bobby.—London Tit-Bits.

THE POET'S CORNER.

Woman, Some More.—
The proverb makers ought to know—
Sometimes they do; sometimes they dont;
And when a woman will she will,
Especially if she says she won't.
—Detroit Journal.

Alas!—
A beauty sleeps beneath yon quiet grass
Who dreamed her face the world might not surpass;
Strength is her neighbor, but he boasts no more—
And over them the wind cries out "Alas!"
—Omar Khayyam (Le Gallienne).

Coming.—
"Think you not," said the soph to the maiden fair,
"My moustache is becoming?"
The maiden answered, as his eye she met,
"It may be coming, but it isn't here yet."

No Freeze-Out for Him.—
The bluebird and the robin,
The oriole and the jay
Have joined the lark, the wren and thrush,
And journeyed far away.

The chickadee has left us,
The catbird calls no more;
Those feathered songsters congregate
Upon some Southern shore.

But, spurning frosts and chilling winds
That blow from Northern seas,
The spunky sparrow flits around
Among the same old trees.
—Cleveland Leader.

HOME HINTS.

"The reason so many people lose their teeth early," said a dentist, "is because they do not attend to them properly. They are so far back in the mouth that the toothbrush does not touch them in the usual perfunctory cleaning, and particles of food are left their to decay. A soft cloth kept ready to supplement the work of the brush will be found of great advantage.

With cooler mornings corn bread returns to grace the family board at the matutinal meal. A good rule calls for two eggs, one-half cupful of sugar, one-half cup butter, one cupful sweet milk, five tablespoonfuls cornmeal, five tablespoonfuls wheat flour, one-half teaspoon soda, one teaspoon cream tartar and a saltspoon of salt. Beat vigorously and bake in a rather hot oven.

The "Medical Press and Circular" raises a warning cry against the careless and indiscriminate use of chlorate of potassium as a remedy for throat troubles. While it has been considered as harmless, therapeutists know that even in comparatively moderate doses chlorate of potassium is a very active drug, producing a marked effect upon the blood, which it turns brown, and leading in larger doses to cardiac paralysis, albuminia and death. Even in what are considered safe doses, chlorate of potassium often gives rise to great mental and physical depression, insomnia, and various other unwelcome complications.

In making any of the desserts where milk and gelatine are employed, it must be remembered that if the gelatine is mixed with the sugar before dissolving it in the milk, there will be no danger of the milk curdling.

While the winter's supply of pickles is being made ready, a cabbage pickle from Virginia will be found worth the trying. Take one peck of cabbage, cut each head in fine pieces, lay in a jar with salt between the layers, and let it stand over night. In the morning, drain, squeeze from the liquor, and put in a kettle, alternating layers of the cabbage with the following spices well mixed: Two ounces of tumeric; once ounce of mace, one ounce of cloves, two ounces celery seed, two pounds of sugar, one-half teacupful black pepper, two ounces allspice, one ounce powdered ginger, four tablespoonfuls mustard, and four onions chopped fine. Cover with vinegar and boil two hours, after which it is ready to pack in jars for winter use.

FASHION'S FANCIES.

One of the most important details in the toilet of a fastidious woman is her handkerchief, and that, whatever else may be lacking, is sure to be of cobwebby fineness and of snowy purity. Fashions change in mouchoirs, as in all other things, but the all-white linen are sure to be in good taste, and are always a safe purchase.

Colored handkerchiefs are again the vogue, the French fashion being the plain colored center, with a border of a contrasting shade.

The marking of a handkerchief is an important item also. Indelible ink is considered bad form, and is never really necessary, as a single letter in script may be quickly and easily outlined in the simple Kensington stitch.

Men of fashion, too, for the nonce are forsaking the pure white handkerchief, affecting the very fine linen with a small figure scattered over the center and a colored border of the same shade.

A favorite style of marking men's handkerchiefs is to reproduce the signature of the owner in script, a much more masculine style than the undecipherable monogram or the single initial.

The pure white linen handkerchief, measuring 23 inches square, finished with a narrow hem and embroidered as suggested above, with the fac simile of the autograph, is considered the acme of good taste by the fastidious man who avoids anything ultra in his dress.

Too Funny.

One of the busiest lawyers in the Roe building hired a new office boy a few days ago. He was in the habit of using rather drastic remarks to his old office boy, who understood the boss to be a "jollier" and knew just how to take him. Not so the new-comer.

One day the lawyer had an unusually important brief to prepare, and when he had been interrupted by a dozen or more callers he jumped up and exclaimed:

"I'm going to get out of this, Johnnie! If any more people come I don't want to see them."

"What shall I tell 'em?" asked Johnnie.

"Tell 'em anything! Tell 'em I'm dead!" shouted the Roe building man as he slammed the door.

Johnnie took him at his word. He wasn't a brilliant fellow at best, and as he was new he thought the boss meant just what he said.

It wasn't three minutes before in walked a lady whom Johnnie had never seen before. She asked for the lawyer.

"He isn't here any more," said Johnnie.

"Not here any more?" repeated the lady with surprise. "Where is he?"

"He's dead!" blurted out Johnnie, carelessly.

"Dead!" shrieked the woman piteously.

"Yes, ma'am, dead," reiterated Johnnie. "He died this morning."

"Oh, mercy," sobbed the lady, and then fell in a dead faint on the floor.

Johnnie rushed out and called for help. Two men from the next office came in. They sent for a doctor, and when the woman was restored to consciousness she asked particulars about her husband's death. They knew nothing of it, and Johnnie had disappeared. She was taken home in a carriage, accompanied by one of her husband's colleagues from the building.

Imagine her surprise when she reached home and found her husband seated at his desk in the library preparing a brief.

Suffice it to say that Johnnie is office boy no longer in the office of the man who expects the lad he hires to have a sense of humor. He sent for the old boy and raised his wages, and Johnnie is looking for a place where he is not in danger of misunderstanding his boss, to the great distress of his family.—St. Louis Republic.

Horse Versus Cyclist.

For a long while the cyclist and the horse have been almost neck and neck in the race against time, and the question of which, under the circumstances, is really the faster for short distances has caused a good deal of speculation. The lithe limbed wheelman has been crowding his four-footed competitor steadily for the world's record. Last week he succeeded in winning it. J. W. Stocks, a well known rider, covered a mile at the Crystal Palace, London, in 1 minute 35⅘ seconds, thereby beating the one-mile record of 1:35½ made by the famous running horse Salvator several years ago.

Prior to Stocks' performance the wheel's best record was 1:37⅘, made by the English expert, J. Platt Betts. His achievement clipped nearly a second from the record made by McDuffie, the Bostonian, less than a week before. Until McDuffie lowered the mark, the wheel's one-mile championship had been held for over a year by W. W. Hamilton, who rode a mile at Coronado, Cal., in 1:39⅘.

Although Stocks' performance beats the next best effort by two seconds, there are plenty of American flyers who believe that the new record will soon be eclipsed. Stocks, it is said, was paced by very fast multicycles, which doubtless assisted him greatly. Some of our American wheelmen are confident enough to assert that, with equally favorable pacing, a record of 1:35 is within the ability of more than half a dozen experts on this side of the water.

At any rate, the 1:35½ mark of Salvator, which was for a long time aimed at by ambitious riders, has been reached, and the glory belongs to the cyclist and his steel-frame companion. Whatever laurels the wheel may win hereafter, it is scarcely to be expected that the horse will be able to regain its former superiority. But of the ability of American wheelmen to bring back to this country the one-mile paced bicycle record there is reason to feel perfectly sure.—New York Sun.

FAIR ROSAMOND.

All the woods of Canington
Are gray with morning mist,
And if I pull a wild red rose,
How should the French queen wist?
And if I pull a wild red rose,
What man dare say me nay?
(The king rides forth to Canington
At dawning of the day.)

In the woods of Canington
The birds are mating now,
And all against the windy sky
White shows the blackthorn bough.
And not a primrose spills its gold,
Or blooms a bud of May,
Yet a rose graces Canington
At dawning of the day.

In the woods of Canington
There's not a bird will sing;
Not a rose will bud or blossom
Since all to please a king
One sweet rose has dropped and withered,
Cast its pride of place away—
(And oh, her ghost haunts Canington
At dawning of the day!)
—Norn Hopper, from the Chap Book.

Kept a Bee

A girl from town is staying with some country cousins who live at a farm. On the night of her arrival she finds, to her mortification, that she is ignorant of all sorts of things connected with farm life which to her country cousins are matters of everyday knowledge. She fancies they seem amused at her ignorance.

At breakfast the following morning she sees on the table a dish of fine honey, whereupon she thinks she has found an opportunity of retrieving her humiliating experience of the night before, and of showing her country cousins that she knows something of country life after all. So looking at the dish of honey she says carelessly:

"Ah! I see you keep a bee."

Meetings at the Y. W. C. A.

The Mutual Benefit Society of the Young Woman's Christian Association was entertained at its last meeting by Mrs. Dr. H. P. Van Kirk, who read an interesting paper on the Catalina Islands. At the regular monthly meeting of the association on Tuesday, the afternoon was spent discussing Scott's "Marmion."

LITERARY NOTES.

How to Grow Flowers for October furnishes a feast of good things for the lovers of flowers. This is the season to plant bulbs for winter and spring flowering, and the current number of How To Grow Flowers gives full cultural directions for this purpose. "House Culture of the Rose" is begun in this number, as is also an interesting floral story, "Outside the Altar Rail." In addition there are installments of "Bulb Work in the Flower Garden," "Bulb Growing in Holland," and "The Rose." All the usual departments are filled with seasonable advice.

Julien Gordon (Mrs. Van Rensselaer Cruger) has a book out this autumn with Messrs. Herbert S. Stone & Company, who will shortly publish Eat Not Thy Heart. As usual Mrs. Cruger deals largely with fashionable life, her scene being laid at a luxurious Long Island county seat. But she has made a new departure in depicting the life of the humbler people of the region. Her heroine is in fact a farmer's wife. Mrs. Cruger is as keenly satirical as ever, both of fashionable and unfashionable life. The story when published serially attracted considerable attention.

The old Spanish missions of California are shown in some beautiful views published in Leslie's this week. The descriptive article accompanying them says: "It is as though a corner of old Spain, with its olive groves, its gray walls, and its mossy fountains, had been set down in the midst of prosaic Yankee-land."

The October number of The Forum may well be described as an international one. Of its twelve interesting articles, no fewer than seven—"England, Turkey, and India," "The Impending Deficiency of Bread-stuffs," "International Bimetallism" (both for and against,) "Statistics versus Socialism," "Universities and the Higher Education of Women," and "Naval Warfare: Present and Future"—concern the other great nations of the earth besides ourselves; while "Our Need of Merchant Vessels" and "The Protective Features of Section 22" treat of subjects of immense importance to the United States. Though not the leading article in the table of contents, Mr. C. Wood Davis's paper on "The Impending Deficiency of Bread-stuffs" readily claims the first attention of the reader by reason of its universal interest. Mr. Davis has devoted many years to the investigation of his subject, and he asserts that, relatively to the consuming population, the acreage under the bread-making grains—wheat, rye, buckwheat, etc., is now two million acres less than fifteen years ago. With regard to the harvest of the present year, Mr. Davis estimates the deficit at no less than 400,000,000 bushels of wheat alone.

Leslie's Weekly has all the bicycling champions and record-makers of 1897, in a series of life-like photographs by Hemment, this week. The front-page is a startlingly realistic street scene, illustrating the effect of the cry, "Stop thief!"

Outing for October is filled with the health and freshness of Autumn. One glance at the handsome cover, with the tints of turning leaves, will whet the sportsman's appetite for the many good things inside. The contents include: "The Cyclist's Annual Frolic," by A. H. Godfrey; "The Beginnings of Fox Hunting in America," by Hamton Hiss; "Four Days on the Prairie," by Edward W. Sandys; "A Day with Cottontails," by Harold A. Scott; "An Adirondack Buck," by Georgia Roberts; "Football," by Walter Camp; "American-Canadian One-Hater Contests," by John P. Roche; "Shark Fishing with a Rod," by W. A. Michael; "Lullaby Mullen, of Porphyry Gulch," by Philip V. Mighels; "In the Teeth of the Mistral Awheel," by Paul E. Jenks; "International Tennis of '97," by J. Parmly Paret; "All-Round Athletic Championships," by Malcolm W. Ford, and the usual editorials, poems, and records.

The Arena for October continues the battle for reform. The number is especially interesting and in some parts brilliant; it is in all parts aggressive and courageous. Hon. Charles A. Towne's article, "The New Ostracism," is in the author's best vein of critical analysis. In the course of the discussion he attacks with great vigor the plutocratic interference with professors in colleges and universities. Herman E. Taubeneck continues his cogent statistical attack on concentrated wealth. Judge Walter Clark sends out a powerful plea for the establishment of public rights over semi-public interests and institutions. The editor of the Arena continues with unabated vigor his onslaught on the organized forces of plutocracy. His article, "Prosperity: the Sham and the Reality," is one of his strongest and best. Dr. Ridpath's exposition of the bottom purposes and methods of the money power is as caustic as it is true. Mary Platt Parmelee's article on the Political Philosophy of the Father of American Democracy is an original and forceful argument for popular liberties. B. O. Flower is again at his best pace in "The Latest Social Vision," in which he discusses the merits of Bellamy's "Equality." Perhaps the most radical and defiant article in the number is "The Dead Hand in the Church," by Rev. Clarence Lathbury, in which he attacks with destructive criticism the domination of the dead past over the living present in the church. "Hypnotism in its Scientific and Forensic Aspects" is the subject of an interesting and useful article by Marion L. Dawson. "Suicide: Is It Worth While?" is the caption of Chas. B. Newcomb's startling study of one of the most interesting and painful themes of the age. The "Plaza of the Poets" is rich with the contributions of Tranquill, Junius Hempstead, Clinton Scollard, Reuble Carpenter, and Helena M. Richardson; while "The Editor's Evening" sparkles with its usual gems of social and political philosophy. Under "Book Reviews" the charming poems of Madison Cawein are set forth with merited commendation.

Mademoiselle Cleo de Merode, in some novel and very beautiful photographic aspects, is conspicuous on the theatrical page of Leslie's—which, however, does not neglect the other attractions current at the metropolitan play-houses.

Among the magazines just fresh from the press is the October "Table Talk," which is most valuable to housekeepers, for its pages are rife with useful and interesting matter for them, as for instance, under the first head comes "The Fine Art of Serving Eggs;" "Dishes, Dainty and Nourishing," by Mrs. M. A. W. Rodger; "Housekeepers Inquiries" and "New Menus and Seasonable Recipes," by Cornelia C. Bedford; "The New Bill of Fare," by Mrs. M. C. Myer, which is full of the latest ideas and newest interests to women, and under the second, "A Driving Tour," or an October outing, by Mrs. Burton Kingsland; "An Approved China Drink," by Martha Bockee Flint, and "Diamond-Back Terrapin," by Calvin D. Wilson. Any of our readers unacquainted with the magazine will receive a sample copy free, if they send name and address to Table Talk Publishing Company, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

Menticulture, Mr. Horace Fletcher's well known and successful book, has been transferred to Herbert S. Stone & Company from its former publishers, A. C. McClurg & Company. Stone & Company issue the book in new form and with an added chapter which Mr. Fletcher considers most important. A successor to Menticulture is Happiness, just to be issued by the same house. It is the second of what Mr. Fletcher intends to call the Menticulture Series.

The new volume in the series of Economic Classics, edited by Professor Ashley, of Harvard, is a translation of Cournot's Researches into the Mathematical Principles of the Theory of Wealth, originally published in French in 1838. At a time when so much attention is being paid to "the mathematical method" in Political Economy, students cannot fail to welcome this English version of what is still according to Professor Edgeworth, "the best statement in mathematical form of some of the highest generalizations in economic science."

Means Suggested for the Reform of Civil Service.

ROTATION IN OFFICE SOUGHT.

Some of the Evils of the System Now In Vogue.

FEATURES OF THE JENK BILL.

Honesty and Competency But Not Perpetuity In Office.

There was a meeting in Becker's Hall last night of citizens who are in favor of reform in the present civil service law.

The auditorium was filled with people, men who have resided in the community for years, and all of them evinced the greatest interest in the proceedings.

The meeting was presided over by Judge Adams, who made a very interesting address. He spoke of the civil service system as it is now understood and the thousands of people to whom it gave employment. Speaking of the bill which they had suggested for the purpose of pensioning themselves, he said they would bankrupt the government, because the bill in question would provide a pension for 400,000 persons. He asked his hearers to think for a moment of the boys who had gone to the war and who had got out of it in 1865, and to consider and recall how they had slept in swamps and were exposed to every hardship. Were those who were seeking offices for life in that list? No, they were clothed in broadcloth and they wanted to live at the expense of the government. And yet, they would drive others away from the honorable means of making a living. Did they want that to be done? If they did, all they had to do was to sit quietly by and allow the passage of the bill which has been designed for the betterment of those office holders. He had not asked and did not want any position in the gift of the government. He wanted the privilege of making his living as he had made it for fifty years in the United States. He held that there should be an equality shown in the matter of position to every citizen of the United States, and preferment should not be accorded solely to those who had been chosen blindly to fill important positions. In San Francisco one of the persons selected to fill a position under the civil service was serving a sentence in the penitentiary for burglary.

John Ellsworth was then chosen to act as secretary, W. S. O'Brien declining to be considered a candidate for the position.

Judge Adams then read the petition which has been in circulation for several days expressing the views of those who originated the meeting indorsing the appointment of officials on merit, and affording equal opportunity to all citizens. He invited those who desired to sign the petition to advance to the platform and about thirty of these presen affixed their names to the document.

Colonel Babcock was the next speaker. He declared that the purpose of the meeting was to discuss civil service reform and to uphold anti-civil service reform as had been mentioned in some of the papers. They were drifting, he said, to a position which was creating an aristocracy of officeholders, and they had come together as citizens looking out for the welfare of the government. He knew that Democrats had expressed themselves in favor of civil service reform. He knew that Republicans had placed such a plank in their platform, and that fact was urged against in undertaking the movement in which they were now engaged. If all those who desired to secure positions under the government were able to or did pass the required examination the lists were now so full that there was no chance of securing a position unless through the death or resignation of some person now in position. It has been understood that the door which had been closed by Cleveland against the old soldier would be opened by the present administration. He wanted to ask whether it was not the unwritten understanding that the soldiers whom he had excluded from office were to be put into position during the administration of his successor? He believed it was to the interest of the Republican party to right those wrongs as rapidly as possible without doing an injury to the country. He had heard with pleasure and in furtherance of this idea, of the restoration of twelve or fourteen veterans to the positions they had occupied in the mint. He deprecated the act of Republican and Democratic papers calling the movement one of anticivil service reform. As he looked around him at those veterans present, he was surprised that they should be considered simply as spoilsmen. And yet that was the characterization that he had seen of them in the papers.

They would die on the fields now as they had offered themselves to die on the fields of the South before they would justify such a libel.

W. Lair Hill said that the question was one which extended to all parts of the country and affected the whole people. He referred to the passage of the first civil service law by Jenks in 1871 and showed what its simple provisions were. In that bill, he claimed, there was no provision for life tenures in office. The speaker knew that Jenks had never thought possible in his bill, that such things as have since transpired would come to pass. If Jenks had thought that life tenure in office was to be one of the features of civil service reform, he would have been among those who opposed the measure. The speaker knew Jenks must have turned in his grave when he saw what was being done in the name of civil service reform.

Mr. Hill advocated certain examinations for positions and certain qualifications for every office. For instance, a letter carrier should not be a man of one leg. A man who had to read addresses on letters should not be blind or unable to read. The knowledge that ought to be required of a person in office, was the knowledge which fitted him to perform the duties of that office. I twas better for a letter carrier to know where Peralta street was than where Cape Colony was. When examinations were being conducted, he thought it would be a good thing if they would submit to an examination the men at the top. When they talked about a college examination why didn't they examine the postmaster as well as they examined the letter carrier? Why should not the chief clerk of the office be examined also? Why should not the gentleman who is in charge of the mint, who it was said had never sought office, be examined. He was an administrator of law, and not simply engaged in the piling of coins. How much algebra ought a lady to know in order to put coins together? How much grammar was it necessary to know in order to weigh the golden and silver coin?

The speaker applied these questions to other departments, claiming that the examinations which are now demanded of subordinates ought to be insisted upon among the heads of departments.

Mr. Hill said that the present system of permanency in office created an oligarchy and sterilized the principles of American citizenship in the office holder.

The following were then adopted:

"Whereas, We view with alarm the scope and extent to which the civil service has been carried in the United States, thereby endangering the perpetuity of our Republican institutions and tending to fasten on to us that evil from which the revolutionary sires fought so nobly to free themselves, namely, a monarchial government:

"Whereas, The present civil service employes at the nation's capital, Washington, D. C., have drafted and prepared a civil service pension bill and are persistently demanding its passage by Congress for the payment of which pensions, if said bill should be passed, would demand an enormous increase in revenue and a corresponding increase in taxation, and also establish a precedent by which all civil employes of the government may demand a pension, now, therefore,

"Resolved, That we, the citizens of Alameda, in mass meeting assembled, do declare such action to be sumptuary law, or class legislation, and that if sustained by the courts or acquiesced in by the people the same rule would hold good in declaring the offices of President of the United States, Cabinet officers, United States Senators, Congressmen, Governors of States, Mayors of cities and all public offices life tenure, all of which we declare to be un-American, un-Republican, and contrary to the spirit and intent of the constitution, its founders and signers, and be it further

"Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to United States Senator George C. Perkins, and Congressman S. G. Hilborn, assuring them that we have implicit faith in the patriotism of our present administration and Congress to remedy these evils."

The meeting then adjourned subject to the call of the chair.

FIGHT FOR A BABY.

Taken From Its Mother But No Warrant Was Issued.

LITTLE GIRL IN DISPUTE.

Judge Hall Is to Decide the Case This Afternoon.

THE MOTHER NOT DIVORCED.

She Is Now Married to and Living With Another Man.

This afternoon at 4 o'clock the question as to the right of Mrs. Fred Johnson to the custody of her child, will come up before Judge Hall. The case was to have been heard at 10 o'clock this morning, but was deferred because it was found impossible to produce the child in court at that hour.

The little girl who is the subject of the contention was taken from the home of her mother in East Oakland by Mrs. Prescott of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, a few nights ago. She was taken away against the wishes of the mother, on the ground that the latter was not a proper person to have custody of her. This charge was based on the fact that the mother is living with a man to whom she was married about sixteen months ago, notwithstanding the fact that her first husband, the father of the little girl, is still alive and no divorce has taken place between the husband and wife.

Johnson and the mother of the girl with a number of friends were present in court. Johnson is a young man of good and seemingly of steady habits. He said that his wife had been married to a man named George Cole in San Francisco, but that he treated her so cruelly that she was compelled to leave him. She and her husband then signed articles of separation for all time, which were prepared by Judge Rix. She supposed that the papers were a divorce.

She was then thrown on the world with no person to care for her and with a child to take care of. She wandered to Chinese Camp, fell in love with Johnson and was there married. Cole's mother learned of the marriage and made use of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children to secure possession of her grandchild.

Johnson and his wife speak in the harshest terms of Mrs. Sanford and Detective Shorey, who took the child away. They said that they took the girl because the father had ordered them to do so, when they claim the fact to be that the father has been absent from this section for a long time.

The mother says that they were taking the little one in order to give her to the grandmother, and that she would never consent to such a deed.

She also says that Mrs. Prescott denied that such was the case, and furthermore that the grandmother had nothing to do with the matter. A few months after Mrs. Sanford had demanded the child, the grandmother walked into Mrs. Johnson's house, and she also asserts that the grandmother had driven to the scene in the same vehicle with Mrs. Sanford.

It is the intention of Mrs. Johnson to sue for a divorce from Cole and there is no doubt that her trouble will then be set aside.

OAKLAND BEHIND ALL OTHER CITIES.

Need of a Receiving Hospital Will Soon Be Very Urgent.

The resolution introduced by Supervisor Church and passed last Monday, empowering the Hospital Committee to revise the rules of that institution will lead to the establishment of a receiving hospital for the city.

"This matter must come to a head," said Mr. Church, who is on the Hospital Committee. "Seven-eighths of the work done at the County Receiving Hospital is properly chargeable to the city of Oakland. Every drunk that has delirium tremens, every injured person, and especially every sick prisoner, is brought to the county institution and we will not have it. Several months ago, when a sick man sent from the city prison was refused admittance to the county Receiving Hospital, Chief of Police Lloyd reported the matter to the Grand Jury and the District Attorney advised them that my position was correct. In no other city does such a condition prevail."

AN ARMENIAN REFUGEE REACHES BERKELEY.

A Beautiful Girl Flees to Escape the Harem of a Turk.

Rosa Alongha, a young and beautiful Armenian girl of aristocratic family, has reached Berkeley and is now with her uncle, Jasper G. Benglulian. The girl belonged to a patriotic family who were subjected to the closest surveillance by the Turks. In order to escape from the latter's power, Miss Alongha disguised herself as a nun and made her way to a sea coast town and embarked for a free country. The girl is well educated and accomplished. Her sister was forced to enter the harem of a Turkish noble and fear of a similar fate drove Rosa Alongha to flight.

NEW MEDICAL DISCOVERY.

A Positive Cure for Dyspepsia.

This may read as though we were putting it a little strong because it is generally thought by the majority of people that Dyspepsia in its chronic form is incurable, or practically so. But we have long since shown that Dyspepsia is curable, nor is it such a difficult matter as at first appears.

The trouble with Dyspeptics is that they are continually dieting, starving themselves, or going to opposite extremes or else deluging the already over burdened stomach with "bitters," "after dinner pills," etc., which invariably increase the difficulty even if in some cases they do give a slight temporary relief. Such treatment of the stomach simply makes matters worse. What the stomach wants is a rest. Now how can the stomach become rested, recuperated and at the same time the body nourished and sustained.

This is the great secret and this is also the secret of the uniform success of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. This is a comparatively new remedy, but its success and popularity leaves no doubt to its merits.

The Tablets will digest the food anyway, regardless of condition of stomach.

The sufferer from Dyspepsia according to directions is to eat an abundance of good, wholesome food and use the tablets before and after each meal and the result will be that the food will be digested no matter how bad your dyspepsia may be, because as before stated, the tablets will digest the food even if the stomach is wholly inactive. To illustrate our meaning plainly, if you take 1,800 grains of meat, eggs or ordinary food and place it in a temperature of 98 degrees, and put it with one of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets it will digest the meat or eggs almost as perfectly as if the meat was enclosed within the stomach.

The stomach may be ever so weak yet these tablets will perform the work of digestion and the body and brain will be properly nourished and at the same time a radical, lasting cure of dyspepsia will be made, because the much abused stomach will be given, to some extent, a much needed rest. Your druggist will tell you that of the many remedies advertised to cure dyspepsia none of them has given so complete and general satisfaction as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and not least in importance in these hard times is the fact that they are also the cheapest and give the most good for the least money.

A little book on cause and cure of stomach troubles sent free by addressing Stuart Company, Marshall, Michigan.

LADIES' NIGHT AT THE RELIANCE.

A Capital Programme Is Presented Before a Large Audience.

The Reliance Club gave a ladies' night last evening at the club rooms which was one of the largest affairs ever given. There was an excellent programme. The Reliance orchestra played in fine style and was heartily applauded. Miss Eva Shorey, the well known soprano, sang "Un Ballo in Maschera" and "Mein Liebchen." Mrs. J. Cal Ewing was very warmly applauded on her recital of "Annette." Miss Grace Carroll gave a contralto solo, "Think of Me," and was heartily encored. The Imperial Banjo and Guitar Club gave several selections. The club is ably directed by Professor Frank Palmer and consists of Miss Eva Earle, Miss Emma Langley, Miss A. Forrester, Miss Mollie Brown, Miss L. Hall, W. H. Price and Professor Palmer.

Johnson and Durant gave a Chinese act that was decidedly amusing and clever.

An amusing features of the evening was the dancing by "Senorita Papeta." The Senorita was Harry Quinn disguised in black tights and the thin illusion skirts usually affected by premier danseuse. Quinn pirouetted and twirled and ogled the men in the front row in a truly fascinating manner and at the conclusion of his labors was presented with flowers. The programme in full was as follows:

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—A dispatch to the World from Washington, D. C., says: "Senator James K. Jones, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, says he will take no part in the municipal contest in Greater New York.

"Senator Jones disclaims any responsibility for the action of Secretary Walsh in indorsing the candidacy of Henry George, merely remarking that, as an individual, Walsh had a perfect right to take whatever action he considered proper.

"When asked as to what course he would pursue regarding the situation in New York, Senator Jones said:

"'I do not think it within my duty to assume any authority in this matter for the National Committee. As the chairman of the National Committee, I do not propose to be drawn into it, for I have no authority to speak for the committee, and it would be impossible to act as an individual and divorce my own personality from my position as chairman.

"'There is no occasion for me to indorse or disapprove of the nomination of either Judge Van Wyck or Henry George.'

"In regard to the letter said to have been written by Senator Jones to Senator Murphy in which he is reported as advising against the confirmation of the Chicago platform by the New York State Convention, the chairman said the communication sounded very much like what either he had written or said to some one in New York, but he said if it was written it was not his intention of having it used as it was used in the New York meeting.

"Chairman Jones said he took the general ground that 'the Chicago platform was binding upon every Democrat,' and that nothing any State or municipal convention might do could add or take away from that platform; it could neither be strengthened or weakened.

"'I believe,' said the Senator, 'as firmly in bimetallism and the Chicago platform as I did the day that platform was adopted and the battle of 1900 is to be fought on the same lines.'"

A FAMILY STRUGGLE OVER PROPERTY.

Father Against Son to Recover West Oakland Real Estate.

The case of Leonard Gaunce against Edwin R. Gaunce, which is now on trial before Judge Ellsworth in the Superior Court, represents the disruption of kindly feelings among the members of the family in question. The suit is to determine the ownership of property in West Oakland valued at about $5,000. The father is the complainant, and the defendant is one of his sons.

The estate in question was community property, having been acquired during the married life of the complainant and his wife, although it has been shown that into the purchase price of the same went some of the earnings of the various members of the family. Although considered community property, a homestead was filed upon it by Mrs. Gaunce, now deceased. Then the property got into the possession of the defendant, and against him the other members of the family have allied to secure for their father the share of the property to which he is entitled.

PROGRESSION THE ROAD TO SUCCESS.

A. W. Bishop Urges Oaklanders to Work for the City's Improvement.

Editor Tribune:—The movement inaugurated by the Merchants' Exchange on the line of developing manufacturing enterprises is a sign of progress in the right direction, and should be pushed with a united energy the importance of the subject demands.

Oakland is most favorably located for the successful inauguration of enterprises of this kind. It is on the land side of the most magnificent bay and harbor in the world; the terminal of the railroad system of the coast; and blessed with a climate incomparable, especially for successful manufacturing business.

The proposition for establishing a hosiery mill in this city calls to mind an enterprise of the same kind inaugurated some fifteen or more years ago by a few enterprising citizens—the Oakland hosiery and knitting mills—which did not meet with the support the enterprise was entitled to receive from the merchants of Oakland and San Francisco. Had the enterprise received proper encouragement it would have been a grand success, giving today employment to hundreds of boys and girls of this city now growing up in idleness for want of employment.

The facts of history are that the public benefactors who inaugurated the worthy enterprise were forced to seek a market for their productions in the East, while Oakland and San Francisco merchants filled their shelves with Eastern and imported goods of the same character, no better than the home production, leaving their home industry to struggle without aid from those whose interests were closely connected with the building up of home industries; and as might have been anticipated, the hosiery and knitting mill finally closed its doors.

The trouble with the people of Oakland is—and it is time the facts should be told, and branded into their comprehension with red-hot words—there is not that homogenity of sentiment, and unity of purpose and action so necessary in successfully building up a great city. Instead of uniting their energies in a grand harmonious push in all enterprises, for the public good—Chicago like—no matter from whom or what source the suggestions come, there is by far too much pinhook jealousy extant; insinuations that the originator has an ax to grind; that somebody is going to make something out of the proposed enterprise, and for that reason the jealous pinhooks turn the cold shoulder, and open the hydrants of cold water to smother the enterprise, no matter how important, besmirching it with the cry of "job."

The cry of "job!" never checked the enthusiastic people of Chicago. If a public enterprise put dollars into the pockets of promoters it would put thousands into the pockets of the people—was the correct reasoning of the pushing, enterprising people of the Queen City—and it was that sensible spirit which built up the wonderful city of Chicago, unrivaled by any city in the world; while Oakland, with its pre-eminent advantages sits like a bump on a log devising ways and means of how not to do it.

There never was any haggling by the people of Chicago over the bonding of the city for the pushing of public enterprises; and every thousand dollars thus invested brought millions of wealth to the city; and the great debt was but a pinch of snuff to make the few weak-kneed fellows sneeze.

Yes, let us have not only a hosiery mill, but hundreds of other mills and manufactories. If they will not come otherwise, offer financial inducements; and when they come, patronize them, encourage them, and make them a success.

Bond the city, and open up communication with the surrounding country. Stop fighting the corporations we have, and hold out inducements for more to come.

When Chicago had less than 30,000 inhabitants it bonded the city to raise money to pay bonuses for the construction of railroads, and took them into the heart of the city. It paid untold millions to make the city the great heart and center of life of the continent—and it was a success, for the people were united as well as progressive—and progressive people from the four quarters of the globe moved to Chicago and made it their home; and it stands today the wonder of this continent and envy of the world.

Oakland may never be a rival of Chicago—but should take immediate measures to move out of "Sleepy Hollow," kill off the influence of the non-progressive grumblers and obstructionists, and make a desperate and united move on the progressive road that leads to renown and wealth.

FOOTBALL NEWS.

The Reliance and Stanford Will Line Up at Recreation Park Tomorrow.

The second game of the football season will be played tomorrow between the Stanford and Reliance elevens. Considerable interest centers in the game, as it is to be Stanford's first appearance on the gridiron field this season.

It is expected that a large number of the U. C. students will be present to "size up" the playing of their opponents for the big Thanksgiving day game.

The Reliance Club will also send its usual crowd of followers, and a train load will come up from Stanford.

The lovers of the game on this side of the bay are in hopes that the Reliance Club will repeat its performance of last Saturday, when it won from Berkeley by a score of 10 to 0.

Yesterday the Reliance players went to Berkeley, where a practice game was played with the U. C. eleven. No attempt was made to score, but the practice was lively and full of vim. The game lasted for an hour.

Whipple, '00, and Bias, '01, of the University, who were ruled off by ex-Captain Haskell for participating in a rush, have been reinstated.

The Army and Navy eleven has been reorganized, not, however, with the players who drew out some weeks ago. Most of those players, who were old Olympic men, are candidates for positions on the Reliance team.

The Army and Navy eleven will ask Reliance for a game on November 20th.

THE STOCK MARKET IN GREATER NEW YORK.

It Has Been Irregular, With a Drift Toward Lower Prices.

Londoners Take a Speculative Interest in Our Securities.

New York, October 2, 1897.—During the past week, the course of the Stock Market has been irregular, with a continued drift towards lower prices. The reactionary tendency that set in about a week ago has been continued and a large amount of realizing has been effected with a considerable fall in prices. This tendency appears to have been due entirely to causes intrinsic to the position of speculation, rather than to any external factors affecting values, —all of which have been encouraging. As already indicated in these advices, the great recovery in the material conditions of the country at large have produced a speculative excitement which has outdone itself. This spirit has gone from buying to buying in expectation of a range of prices that could not be reached in a few days or weeks, but must wait upon the co-operation of the conservative "bull" sentiment which in the long run always controls the course of values. The large profits made in the first three months of the advance encouraged a class of inexperienced outside operators to pile up their holdings through using their profits as margins, thereby producing a dangerous inflation which could only result in a violent reaction.

In this way, it has come to pass that a large amount of stocks have passed into comparatively weak hands. Operators of large means and more cautious methods have thereby been to a certain extent kept out of the market. They were unwilling to buy at the high figures created by enthusiastic "bulls" unable to withstand reactionary influences, and preferred either to maintain a passive attitude or to encourage a pressure that would reach stop orders or exhaust margins. In this way they have been encouraged by the policy of the banks in keeping down their local loans in order to meet the large demands for money from the interior, and also by direct pressure brought to bear upon certain professional operators who had inflated prices by recklessly extravagant purchases.

There have been sound reasons for this conservative attitude. There is no dispute about the change in business conditions having very largely increased the value of securities. Nor is it questioned that the earnings of the railroads are very likely to ultimately reach a point at which even higher than current average quotations would be justified. But conceding all this, it does not follow that it may be safely undertaken to realize, at the present beginning stage of the national revival, the effects that are hoped for as the outcome of fuller developments of the recovery. Such anticipatory bulling takes too much for granted. Prudent and successful operators prefer to keep in close touch with the march of events, rather than to assume the certain realization of the best that can be imagined. Also, it is not to be overlooked that there are some important contingencies in the future to which securities would be very sensitive. The Cuban question is entering upon a new phase, and we cannot forsee what part our Government may be called upon to play in it. The mysterious action of the British Government in respect to silver and the apparent willingness of France to negotiate with us for some expansion of silver coinage, or free coinage, are suggestive of a possible revival of some distrust upon that very sensitive question. Ten weeks hence, Congress will reassemble, and it is not impossible that it may afford a disappointment to the hopes entertained by the influential friends of sound money. These are possibilities which do not encourage prudent men to discount many months in advance the most sanguine calculations of the future. Besides, this season of the year is never the safest for undertaking excessive bull speculations. From twenty to forty millions of currency has usually to be sent to the West and the South, so that the reserves are liable to then reach their lowest point; and to force up prices of stocks extravagantly in the face of declining reserves is a very unpromising undertaking.

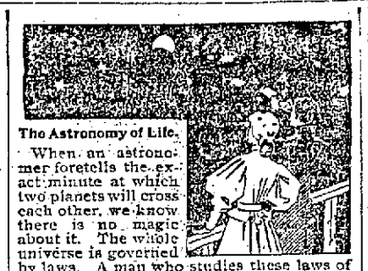

These are the ideas that have lately been gaining ascendancy in the Stock Exchange. They have reached the commission houses, and customers are seeking to protect themselves by taking their profits. It is a prudent movement and will result in a sounder and safer condition of the market. The extent of its effect may be inferred from the following comparison of the highest prices of leading stocks on September 17th with the lowest of September 23th:—

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Can. of New Jersey | 101¾ | 96 | dec. 5¾ |
| Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe pfd... | 35½ | 31⅜ | dec. 4⅛ |
| | Sep. 17 | Sep. 29. | Chang's |
| Chesapeake & Ohio | 26⅝ | 23½ | dec. 3⅜ |
| Chicago, Burlington & Quincy | 101½ | 96⅜ | dec. 5⅛ |
| St. Paul | 101⅞ | 95½ | dec. 6⅜ |
| Chicago & Northwestern | 132¼ | 125¾ | dec. 6½ |
| Rock Island | 95¾ | 89¾ | dec. 6 |
| C., C., C. & St. Louis | 41½ | 35⅞ | dec. 5⅜ |
| Delaware & Lackawana | 162¾ | 158 | dec. 4⅝ |
| Delaware & Hudson | 122 | 117¼ | dec. 4¾ |
| Erie | 18¾ | 16½ | dec. 2¼ |
| Illinois Central | 108⅜ | 103 | dec. 5⅜ |
| Louisville & Nashville | 62¼ | 58⅞ | dec. 3⅜ |
| Missouri, Kansas & Texas pfd | 41⅝ | 37¼ | dec. 4⅜ |
| Missouri Pacific | 39 | 32¾ | dec. 6¼ |
| New York, Ontario & Western | 20 | 18 | dec. 2 |
| Oregon Railway & Navigation | 39½ | 36 | dec. 3½ |
| Reading | 29 | 25½ | dec. 3½ |
| American Sugar Refining | 153¾ | 143 | dec. 10¼ |
| Chicago Gas | 107½ | 98¾ | dec. 8¾ |
| Western Union Telegraph | 90⅝ | 83¼ | dec. 7⅛ |

The downward movement has produced on these twenty-one active stocks, speculative and investment, a decline ranging from two to 10¾ points and averaging 5⅛ points. Since the 29th, prices have dropped 1 to 2 points further; so that, at the close of the week, figures averaged about 7 per cent lower than on September 17th. The selling has undoubtedly been large by certain influential professional operators, and the mass of smaller holders have done considerable realizing, under bear reports of extensive selling by capitalists, which rumors however have been explicitly and openly denied by certain of those holders. Considering the pressure applied by the bears, not only through short sales but also through demoralizing canards, and also the largeness of the realizings on long stock by bull operators, it is remarkable that the fall in prices has not been greater, and the fact must be taken as evidence of the great intrinsic strength of the market and the readiness of buyers to take stocks at current prices. Upon a market backed by such extraordinarily strong conditions as now exist, a fall of seven points is not an unimportant concession and it may prove to be as much as bear efforts can at present accomplish. Still, as we have already intimated, this is not a season of the year favorable to enthusiastic bulling movements; and, for the present and possibly throughout this month, it will be a prudent policy for buyers to be satisfied with small profits. Until next month, we may reasonably expect an irregular market; and, under such conditions, it is always most profitable to sell on strictly moderate advances and buy on the drops.

The London market shows an increasing disposition to take a speculative interest in our securities, but the weakness of the last few days has discouraged buying transactions. The Bank of England has made no further advance in its rate of discount; which has produced a better feeling in the foreign speculative markets. Germany is taking more interest in our railroad issues, and some considerable buying orders have been received from Berlin though in some cases at prices too low to be executed; but these transactions are done in such a quiet way that they produce less impression than their importance merits.

HENRY CLEWS.

The Astronomy of Life.

When an astronomer foretells the exact minute at which two planets will cross each other, we know there is no magic about it. The whole universe is governed by laws. A man who studies these laws of nature carefully and reduces them to a science, can count on exact results every time.

A doctor knows that certain remedies affect certain diseases.

When a disease seems to have no remedy the doctors pronounce it incurable. All the time Nature may have the remedy right at hand, but it will only be discovered by the doctor who has studied longer and deeper than others into this particular disease.

Consumption seemed for a long time without a remedy, until Dr. Pierce made his wonderful "Golden Medical Discovery" 30 years ago. It has proved to be a marvelous and almost unfailing specific for consumption and all forms of lung, bronchial and throat difficulties.

Its effects seem almost magical but its operation is based upon simple natural laws. It has the peculiar property of enabling the blood-making glands to manufacture healthy, red blood and pour it abundantly into the circulation. This nourishing, vitalizing effect is rapidly manifested in the lungs and bronchial tubes where it stops the wasting process and builds up healthy tissue.

It is readily assimilated by stomachs which are too weak to digest cod liver oil, and it is far superior to malt-extracts as a permanent and scientific flesh-builder in all wasting diseases.

"Twenty-five years ago eight different doctors told me that I would live but a short time, that I had consumption and must die," writes Geo. R. Coope, Esq., of Myers Valley, Pottawatomie Co., Kans. "I finally commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and am still on the land and among the living. I have faith to believe that it has lengthened my life for the last twenty-five years, and I have so much faith in all of your medicines that I want one of your 'Common Sense Medical Advisers.'"

Dr. Pierce's medicines are recognized as standard remedies throughout the world. His "Pleasant Pellets" cure constipation.

COURTESY LED TO INSULT.

Merchants of San Francisco Make Complaint to the Governor.

OBJECT TO R. M. FITZGERALD.

The Prison Director Replies in Language That Is Very Clear.

BOTH SIDES FEEL INSULTED.

Correspondence That Began Cordially Is Now Peppery.

For about three weeks a brief correspondence has been carried on between R. M. Fitzgerald, President of the Board of Prison Directors and the Manufacturers' and Producers' Association of San Francisco.

The trouble commenced over the letting of a contract by the Board for 5,000 tons of Australian coal at $5.30 a ton when California coal could be purchased at $4.50 per ton less. The correspondence printed below, shows how courtesy led to innuendo and insult, and finally to the resolution of the Association to refer the whole matter to Governor Budd.

Mr. Fitzgerald said this morning when asked for the correspondence:

"Yes, since a committee of the Manufacturers' and Producers' Association of California with whom I have been having a correspondence have seen fit to make public that correspondence from their point of view, I am now willing that the whole correspondence should be given out for publication, although I have persistently refused to give it to the press up to this time.

"I noticed by the reports in the morning papers today that the committee think they have been insulted but see nothing of the direct and intended insult in every letter which they have written me from first to last, and if they do not and cannot find their letters have been insulting and full of insinuations and innuendos, they ought to get some one else to carry on their correspondence for them.

"I ignored the insults in their first letter and gave them the facts in a courteous reply but they were not satisfied with that and demanded the figures to prove that what I said to them was true. I cannot believe that this committee is either individually or as a whole so ignorant as not to understand the insults offered.

"Just before receiving the first communication Mr. Kerr, president of the Manufacturers' and Producers' Association, is reported by the daily papers as saying for publication that he had appointed a committee to investigate the coal contract at San Quentin, or words to that effect. I suppose this ought to be taken as flattery by the Board of Prison Directors. And now I see they have gone to tell "Papa." The fact is that some of these connected with the Board of Directors of the Manufacturers' and Producers' Association have always been opposed to the jute mill at San Quentin, although it has been of untold benefit to the farmers of the State. I do not know whether the farmers are considered producers by those gentlemen or not. The correspondence can speak for itself."

THE CORRESPONDENCE.

THE OPENING SHOT.

"Hon. R. M. Fitzgerald, President Board of State Prison Directors, Oakland, Cal., Dear Sir:—Will you oblige the Manufacturers' and Producers' Association by giving us the facts about your recent award of contract for furnishing coal to the San Quentin Prison? If you are pleased to give us the information we would like to know if foreign coal at $5.30 per ton is to be furnished in preference to California product at $2.80 per ton, and if so, why the imported article is considered more economical?

"Hoping you will pardon us for troubling you, and that we may be favored with your early reply, we remain,

"Most Respectfully yours,
"W. F. BOWERS, Pres. Bowers Rubber Co.
"FRANK L. BROWN, Manager Washburn, Moen Mfg. Co.
"E. EVERETT, Tubbs Cordage Co."

HOW THE CONTRACT WAS LET.

"Oakland, Cal., August 20th, 1897.

"W. F. Bowers, Esq. (care Manufacturers' and Producers' Association), Mills Building, San Francisco, Cal., Dear Sir:—I am in receipt of the request made by yourself, Mr. Brown, and Mr. Everett on behalf of the Manufacturers' and Producers' Association for information concerning the awarding of the contract for furnishing coal for the San Quentin Prison, and in reply thereto would say that each year some time prior to the awarding of the contract for the furnishing of coal, the engineer is instructed to make tests of all coal which may be sent there for that purpose. These tests are to guide us in awarding contracts. Taking these tests as furnished by our engineer as a basis, the coal for which we contracted was the cheapest coal. With the information given us by our engineer and based on his tests, we could produce more steam for less money by purchasing the coal for which we awarded the contract. I presume that we need not explain to you that goods that are the least in price are not always the cheapest. The imported article which you speak of in your note was considered somewhat economical by the Board of Directors if we could get more steam with it for less money than we could by purchasing any other coal at the figures offered. These are the facts concerning this matter. Should there be anything else which you or any member of your association desires information upon it will afford me pleasure at any time to give it to you.

"Very truly yours,
(Signed) "R. M. FITZGERALD."

THANKFUL AT THIS STAGE.

"San Francisco, Cal., August 28th, 1897.

"Hon. R. M. Fitzgerald, President Board of State Prison Directors, Oakland, Cal., Dear Sir:—Please accept thanks for your enclosure of 20th, and for your kind offer to furnish any further information. We note that the coal contract was awarded on account of tests made by your engineer. Will you please favor the Manufacturers' and Producers' Association by sending us a copy of the engineer's report of tests so we may understand why the foreign coal was considered more economical than the California product?

"Hoping you will pardon us for again troubling you, and that we may be favored with your reply at an early date, we remain.

"Most Respectfully yours,
"W. F. BOWERS, Pres. Bowers Rubber Co.
"FRANK L. BROWN, Washburn, Moen Mfg. Co.
"EDW. EVERETT, Tubbs Cordage Co."

WHY TESTS WERE KEPT SECRET.

OAKLAND, Cal., Sept. 3, 1897.

"To Messrs. W. F. Bowers, Frank H. Brown and E. Everett, San Francisco, Cal.—Gentlemen: In reply to yours of August 28th would say that you note correctly that the coal contract was awarded on account of tests made by our engineer, and I regret indeed that you did not understand my direct statement that based on the tests we could produce more steam for less money by purchasing the coal for which we awarded the contract. Perhaps I should have explained that there is a large steam engine (I do not now recall the make, and presume this is unimportant) at the prison which is used to generate steam and thus produce the power necessary to run the machinery in the jute mill. I presume you have heard that there is a jute mill at San Quentin, and should you wish to understand its mechanism and working, I should be pleased to have you visit the mill and have a practical observation of its working and examine for yourself the construction of its machinery. I have not the report of the engineer at hand, but if I had I would not feel at liberty to send it to you without presenting the matter to the Board of Direcors, for the reason that on a previous occasion the tests of coal were made public and various coal dealers attempted to make capital out of the information obtained. Since that time the Board determined not to make public the tests. You can, I presume, understand why the Board did not wish to become an advertising medium for those who had tests of coal made at the prison. If, however, you wish to "understand" why and under what circumstances one coal may be cheaper than another, although different in price, for the purpose of guiding you in future purchases to be used in your private business, it would be well for you to present it fully, stating why you wish to "understand" the economy of coal, and I shall, I assure you, take the first opportunity to present the matter to the Board, if you wish, with the hope that the Board would see fit under the circumstances to give you the information desired. I cannot and do not speak for the whole Board, but hope that its members may take the same view that I hold.

"By the way, would kindly, if not inconsistent with some of your rules, let me know why "Bowers Rubber Co." and Washburn-Moen & Co. do not use California coal? Is it for economical, sentimental or business reasons that these companies buy coal produced in another State and overlook the "California product?"

"Would also be pleased to know why the "Tubbs Cordage Company" use foreign coal and do not buy the "California product." If it is not too much trouble, I would like to know why it is that there is not a company or concern represented by the president or any member of the Board of Directors of the "Manufacturers' and Producers' Association of California" that uses the "California product." At least such is my information, and, if in error, would consider it a favor if you would correct me. If I am not in error, I would like further to "understand" why it is that business men do not "understand" that which they are doing every day themselves.

"In view of my present light, then it is not strange that I should become deeply interested in your association and should be pleased to have you send me a copy of your constitution and by-laws, if you have one, in order that I may fully understand your aims and objects. And I am sure that if we understand each other we would be of mutual assistance and comfort. Besides when people understand one another fully, the inconsistency of human nature does not seem so queer.

"I hope you can send me the facts about the coal used by the firms you represent as their experience undoubtedly would be of benefit to us, and assure you that you will find me at all times ready to reciprocate what I can. Very truly yours.
(Signed) "R. H. FITZGERALD."

THE FIGHT GETS PERSONAL.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 15, 1897.

"Mr. R. H. Fitzgerald, president State Board of Prison Directors, Oakland, Cal.—Dear Sir: Reply to yours of the 3d, you evidently do not understand that our letter of August 28th to which you have replied, is a business letter from business men, who have the honor to be citizens of the State of California and members of the Manufacturers' and Producers' Association.

"If you feel that our request is worthy of attention, will you please make us a businesslike reply? Submit our correspondence to the Board of Prison Directors and ask them to send us the report of the engineer, showing the result of tests or the record showing annual cost of fuel at San Quentin, when foreign coal was used and when California coal has been used during the past five years, so that we may understand why the foreign coal has been considered more economical than the home product.

"Reply to your inquiry as to why the Tubbs Cordage Company, Washburn, Moen Mfg. Company and Bowers Rubber Company do not use California coal, we will state that each of these concerns would be glad to use that product if it could be obtained in the quantities that we are able to buy at $2.80 per ton, but such is not the case.

"California coal cannot be obtained in the quantities that we are able to use at this price.

"The Manufacturers' and Producers' Association will send you under another cover copy of their by-laws, from which you will learn the objects of that association. Respectfully yours,

"W. F. BOWERS,
Bowers Rubber Co.
"FRANK L. BROWN,
"WASHBURN-MOEN CO.
"EDWARD EVERETT,
"TUBBS CORDAGE CO."

FITZGERALD BECOMES SARCASTIC.

"Oakland, Cal., September 24, 1897. To Messrs. W. F. Bowers, Frank L. Brown and Edward Everett (care Manufacturers' and Producers' Association of California, Mills building, San Francisco, Cal.)—Gentlemen: Permit me to say, in reply to yours of September 15th, that I presumed that your letter of August 28th was from 'business men,' but I did not understand that it was a 'business letter'; but, as your failure to 'understand' matters is mentioned again and again in every letter that you have written to me, I hope that you will deal as leniently with me as the rules of the Manufacturers' and Producers' Association of California will permit. If your letter of August 28th is a 'business letter' you are attempting to attend to some one else's business, and I always had the idea that business men, under any and all circumstances, attended strictly to their own business and felt exceedingly well satisfied if they were successful in doing that; so, if the rules of the Manufacturers' and Producers' Association will permit, I must take under advisement the statement that your letter of August 28th is a 'business letter from business men.' Again, I did not know that business men would advise or suggest that the State should buy or use an article which they themselves cannot and will not use in their own private business. I know that a few, a very few, peddlers, hucksters and traders may suggest such a proceeding, but business men never. Apparently, however, I am not too old to learn.

"I am indeed very glad to know that you are 'citizens of the State of California,' for this fact, if sufficiently advertised, will insure her prosperity for the future and avert any midnight attack. Besides; if the additional fact is properly promulgated that you are 'members of the Manufacturers' and Producers' Association of California,' it will undoubtedly absolutely shut out any importation from foreign countries or sister States, saving, however, such articles as you gentlemen may want to use in your own business.

"Your communications were all submitted at the last meeting of the Board of Directors held at San Quentin, and there was also submitted at the same time, by the Warden to the Board, a letter from your secretary, Mr. Mead, full of insinuations and innuendos because the contract for pepper made at the State Prison did not meet his commendation. The Warden was instructed to reply thereto, and has since informed me that your president or manager had the manliness to write and apologize for the insinuations contained in the letter of your secretary. I suppose all these communications are 'business letters from business men.'

"I have perused the declaration of principles of the Manufacturers' and Producers' Association of California; and admire them, but I do feel that you ought to have a 'saving clause' there permitting the directors of your association to buy and deal in foreign made goods whenever it suits your convenience. This may prevent the American eagle from screaming as loudly as he can now, if perched on your declaration of principles, but it would come nearer the facts, and we sometimes ought to sacrifice a little tinsel covering for truth.

"You ask us to send you a report or record showing the annual cost for fuel at San Quentin when foreign coal was used and when California coal has been used during the last five years, so you can understand why the foreign coal has been considered more economical than the home product. Would this enable you to 'understand' which coal was the cheapest? I presume that a business man would also want to know the general average price of coal for each year and when the coal was generally higher or lower one year than another. However, you do not seem to desire this. This information you can get from our printed reports, and is and has been for years public property.

"Would it not be possible for you gentlemen and the directors of the Manufacturers' and Producers' Association of California, if really in earnest, as shown by your declaration of principles, to club together and get enough coal of the California product to justify a sufficient reduction in rates to comply with your business principles?

"Permit me to ask if you have ever given the California product a trial, and if so, will you give the result? We have tried it, and when the cheapest have purchased it, and under the same circumstances would do so again without advice, or suggestion from any one.

"Again, I do not see why you should be able to purchase small quantities of foreign coal at a cheaper rate proportionately than you could purchase the same quantities of California product. I recognize the principle that you can always purchase large quantities of articles at a cheaper rate than you can smaller quantities, but why does this not apply to all kinds of coal—foreign and domestic?

"Your declaration of principles is certainly commendable, and no one can find any objection to anything in that declaration who has the interest of the State of California at heart, but I do object to any one dancing a skirt dance on that declaration of principle, and then, when he dons his every day business suit, to act directly contrary to it, for I always feel that, no matter how long the skirt, the rapidity of the change insures a most shocking exposure. If there is any private by-law which justifies this, kindly send me a copy.

"Your communication will all be referred to the Board of State Prison Directors at its next meeting in Folsom. The Board can take such action in the matter as it sees fit. I think, however, that some inquisitive member of the Board may want to know why you wish to 'understand' from us the economy of coal, and also who constituted you censors of the acts of public officials.

"Very truly yours,
"R. M. FITZGERALD."

The last letter of Mr. Fitzgerald was read at a meeting of the association yesterday, and it was considered as an insult by that body. It was then decided to send the following letter to Governor Budd:

"San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 7, 1897. To His Excellency Hon. James H. Budd, Governor of California, Sacramento, Cal.—Dear Sir: We inclose herewith copies of correspondence between a committee of the Manufacturers' and Producers' Association of the State of California and the Board of State Prison Directors, which is self-explanatory.

"A report was made by that committee to the Board of Directors of this association that the replies of Mr. Fitzgerald were of such a character that they did not consider it their duty to hold any further communication with him in this matter.

"The Board of Directors, at a meeting held this day, instructed the president to lay the matter before Governor James H. Budd and respectfully ask if the replies of Mr. Fitzgerald meet with his approval. You will note that Mr. Fitzgerald denies the right of this association to act as censors in relation to any public officers. In this connection I would state that the laws of that State of California provide that, price and quality being equal, preference should be given to California products by those purchasing supplies for State institutions.

"In view of this fact, we believe that this association, representing as it does a large proportion of the manufacturers and producers of the State of California, was in pursuance of its duty when it asked for the data upon which a contract for 5,000 tons of coal had been given to a representative of a foreign product in preference to California coal.

"An early reply is requested, as it may be necessary for this association to lay this matter before its entire membership.

"Respectfully yours,
"JAMES W. KERR,
"President Manufacturers' and Producers' Association."

WANT WATER NOW INSTEAD OF COLD.

More Digging Is Going on in the East Oakland Mud Banks.

The old gold diggings on the East Oakland mud banks between Eighth and Eleventh streets are being prospected for water. Though the well-diggers have reached a lower level than the gold hunters, no trace of the precious metal has been found.

The ground in the neighborhood is roughened with the embryo mining shafts of gold seekers. Three years ago a West Oakland medium and clairvoyant had a strange and weird vision in which she saw gold glittering on the banks along the mud flats of East Oakland. Two men inspired by her vision and directed by her waking senses, spent days overturning the earth in the hope of coming upon the precious nuggets. Their hopes were doomed to disappointment and they soon wearied of their task.

Occasionally at night the residents of the neighborhood who are awakened in the long silent hours, still hear the sounds of spade and shovel of some one who is hopefully looking for hidden treasures.

WILL VIEW MANY PRETTY PARK SITES.

Committees and Others to Take an Excursion Around the City.

The Park Committee of the City Council appointed at its last meeting a committee of real estate men to act in conjunction with the Board of Trade and the Merchants' Exchange in inspecting some proposed sites for a park. E. P. Vandercook, A. S. Macdonald, A. M. Benham, and E. W. Woodward, with W. E. Barnard as chairman, are the representatives chosen, and they will meet with the other committees and all citizens who are interested and care to join the excursion, in front of the City Hall to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock and drive through and inspect the various sites which have been considered.

These will include the Adams, Crocker, Sather, and other estates adjoining the city. After the tour of inspection, the committees are to meet and prepare a report for the next Council meeting at which measures are to be taken to complete the plans.

A conference of General Booth, Commander Booth-Tucker, with capitalists, will be held in New York October 18th, when the last details of the proposed colony will be arranged. It is now definitely settled, however, that 1000 families will be placed in the Arkansas valley.

YOUNG REPLIES.

The "Messiah" Is Arrested and Held for Trial.

HIS WIFE IS ALSO IMPLICATED.

Now the "Divine" Intends to Fight in the Courts.

CLAIMS HE IS PERSECUTED.

He Declares He Has Always Treated His Children Kindly.

"Messiah" F. F. Young has defied his neighbors. He declares that they have made him the victim of their persecutions, and he now intends to fight back.

Young and his daughter Nertie, whom, it is claimed, he cruelly beat, arrived from Stockton this morning, and Deputy Constable Robinson immediately served Young and his wife with warrants for their arrest for cruelty to their child. They were taken before Judge Lawrence, who, after holding them over for trial, released them on their own recognizance.

Young looks white and worried, but is ready to show fight. He emphatically denies the charge of cruelty to his child, and is anxious to answer the charges of Secretary Dimpfel of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children in open court, and Dimpfel is just as ready to prove his charges.

Young admits that he has kept his children from the public school, but declares that he has educated them in the "School of Christ," as he did not want them to associate with the "ungodly."

Young was ready to talk about his affairs today, and announced that he intended to retain a reputable attorney to defend him.

"My troubles are caused by those who differ from me in my religion," said Young this morning. "They are the workings of the devil. There are good people in every church, and there are others who form the lower strata. It is this latter class that is pestering me. They interfere with my family affairs, incite my children to rebellion and drag me into court. It is because the School of Christ wins disciples from every church, Catholic and Protestant. We are not an organization. We believe in Christ and the teachings of the New Testament. We cure by faith, and we trust in the Lord for providing for us. These tenets are intolerable to our persecutors. They malign us, but we let it pass. We allow them to smite us, and we leap with joy as the Bible directs us to do.

"But now they have gone far enough, and I intend to put a stop to their endless persecutions. I intend to hire a good, reputable, honest lawyer, and will fight them back.

"Mrs. Annie Perry, who lives next door, made the complaint, and I intend to see that she suffers for it. I know certain matters concerning her, and they will all be brought in court. They are not creditable to her, either.

"Then there are other women in the neighborhood who will also be made to answer.

"If Colonel Dimpfel believes I beat my child unmercifully, why did he not examine her back? He took the word of gossiping women. My child was punished, and she deserved to be, and there were no welts upon her. I did not run away to Stockton with her. I had planned to go, and she wanted to go with me. The Lord provided the money for transportation, and I took her with me.

"I have been persecuted and hounded ever since I came to Oakland. I was a Presbyterian minister in good standing in Missouri and in Kansas, and I left the church because I believed my present faith the only true one. I did not break up the home of Lieutenant Lasher in East Oakland. Before we left, Lasher said that I had been wronged by others. Mrs. Lasher is still a member of our church, and we hear from her regularly. Religious differences caused the trouble in that instance, also."

Young intends to continue his evangelical work. Colonel Dimpfel is investigating the Messiah's Eastern record before the case comes to trial, and expects to obtain overwhelming evidence against the "Messiah." Young defies Dimpfel to find out anything derogatory to his character. The neighborhood in which Young and his brood reside is divided in opinion, but for the most part is emphatic in denouncing Young and his manner of rearing his family.

THE NEW LEAGUE GAME.

Reliance and Olympic Baseball Teams Cross Bats Sunday.

Sunday, at Recreation Park, at Eighth and Harrison streets, San Francisco, the Olympic baseball club will make its first appearance on the diamond in the second game of the new league recently formed by the Stockton, Reliance, Olympic and Gilt Edge teams.

The Olympics will meet the Reliance team Sunday, and it is expected that one of the best games of the season will be played.

Great interest is centered in the game and a large crowd is expected to be present. At the game last Sunday between the Reliance and the Gilt Edges of Sacramento, there were fully 5,000 people present. As the Olympic Club is sending out a San Francisco team, and as it is the first game for that club to play, a larger crowd is expected next Sunday.

The Reliance Club will put up its usual game of ball, in which case the Oaklanders feel confident of winning. A large delegation of baseball enthusiasts from this side of the bay will witness the game.

The Reliance team will make the following changes in the personnel of the team:

McLean, pitcher; Riley, shortstop; Drews, left field; Arlett, right field; Dean and Perrine, substitutes.

THE ROAD RACE.

Many Oaklanders Have Entered in the Ten Mile Event.

The annual ten mile road race of the California Associated Cycling Clubs will take place Sunday over the course from High street to Haywards.

The following Oaklanders have entered the race: George Wyman and H. W. Squires, 45 seconds handicap; M. F. Rose, one minute; C. Staples, A. H. Agnew, V. J. Galindo and P. H. Rosenheim, 1½ minutes; C. N. Bolte, 1:45; A. T. Smith, A. Riedy, J. H. Nash and L. H. Smith, 2 minutes; A. Burke, 2:15; C. W. Nugent, H. Anderson, 2:30; G. W. Ferris, Walter Hamilton, W. H. Arpe, F. Maunder, G. H. Bedbury, H. M. Kennedy, 2:45; H. W. Phillips, J. Winn and G. D. Cramer, 3 minutes; F. F. Galindo, 3:15.

Judge Allen of the Acme Club and E. B. Jerome of the Reliance are among the judges. F. W. Sharpe of the Acme Club is to be one of the timers, and Captain Shedd of the Acme will be an assistant.

SOUGHT DEATH IN THE BAY AT NIGHT.

A Timely Interposition by the Crew of the Steamer Piedmont.

A man named Frederico de Prado, a Salvadorean, jumped into the bay last night, off the steamboat Piedmont, when it was on its way to this city from San Francisco. The act was witnessed by Captain Jones, who stopped the engines immediately. A skiff was lowered, and within five minutes De Prado was taken from the water. The would-be suicide was taken aboard the steamboat, and on its return to San Francisco he was taken to the harbor hospital, where he was treated by Dr. Hanly. De Prado would give no more definite idea as to his home save that it was near Howard and Third streets. De Prado said he had attempted to take his life because his head troubled him.

ARREST PREVENTED A MARRIAGE CEREMONY.

Effect of the Corralling of Two Members of an Ohio Gang.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

POMEROY, Ohio, Oct. 8.—Charles Bysall and Bert Wines, two members of a gang that had been terrorizing the inhabitants of Meigs and surrounding counties, were arrested here under sensational circumstances. Bysall was standing beside Miss Georgie Manley, at the home of Squire Long, awaiting the words that would have made them man and wife, when the officers suddenly appeared on the scene and made prisoners of the trio before any resistance could be offered. Wines, who was a guest at the intended wedding, started to run, but was captured after leading the officers a spirited chase. Rewards aggregating $2000 have been offered for the capture and conviction of these men and feeling is running high against them.

CLEVELAND WILL THINK OF IT LATER.

At Present the Big Man Is Silent on the New Jersey Senatorship.

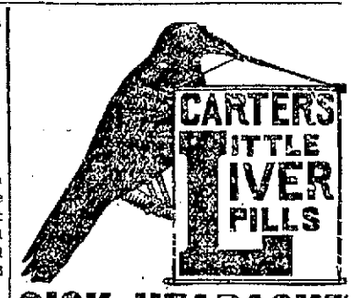

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 8.—Ex-President Cleveland is quietly resting at his home in this city. While he was reclining in his easy chair last evening talking to Mrs. Cleveland, the following question was asked him:

"Would you accept or seriously consider the United States Senatorship if offered you by your New Jersey friends?"

His reply was: "An answer to this question at this time, I am sure, would be premature and out of place."

Mr. Cleveland has a host of friends in Princeton who would do all possible to offer him the Senatorship and induce him to accept it.

DIED TIRED OF THIS TROUBLESOME WORLD.

The Face of a Young Woman Who Left a Note Behind Her.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 8.—Lying in a clump of tall weeds, with a revolver by her side and a bullet hole in the left temple, the body of a young woman, supposed to be Jennie Oates, 20 years old, was found last night by Officer Schmault, at a point midway between Eighth and Ninth avenue on Ninety-ninth street. In one of the pockets of the woman's dress was found a note which leads the police to believe the young woman committed suicide as the result of a lovers' quarrel. The note was addressed to J. Fell, 5719 Bishop street, and in it the writer stated that she was tired of living and, in fact, tired of everything.

The note was signed Jennie Oates and bore the address of 586 Francisco street. She had lived at this place two weeks but nothing more is known of her.

In the Collision Which Followed a Sheep Herder Was Killed.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

SPRINGVILLE, Utah, Oct. 8.—At Castle Gate last night, a rear end collision on the Rio Grande Western Railway cost David Oglesbury his life and seriously injured Ed Morgan. Both lived at Goshen, a few miles below this city. The men were occupying the caboose of the sheep train when the engine of another sheep train following crashed into it, with the result above stated.
